ANOTHER SERIOUS TRAIN MISHAP

Express Engine And Coach Derailed

PASSENGERS SAFE: RAILWAY EMPLOYEE HURT

Following in the wake of the railway disaster on January 18, less than a fortnight ago, when five broke out on board the Kowloon-Canton express train resulting in the deaths of 77 passengers, another mishap, though of a much less serious degree, occurred yesterday afternoon when the engine and a coach of an express train from Kowloon to Canton became derailed at Tong Tau Ha in Chinese Territory.

The train, comprising engine and ten coaches, left Kowloon Railway Station at 12:45 p.m. yesterday and was due to arrive at Canton shortly before 4 p.m.

The railway authorities did not have much information concerning the accident when a "Daily Press" representative called at the Kowloon Station yesterday evening, but it was learned from a message despatched from the Station Master at Tong Tau Ha to the Chinese Section of the K.C.R. at Canton—a copy of which was transmitted to the British Section—that the passengers were safe.

EMPLOYEE HURT

A ticket collector, named Li, employed in the British Section was hurt as a result of the derailment but his injuries are stated to be of a slight nature.

Tong Tau Ha station, the scene of the accident, is 46 miles from Kowloon and is situated between Cheung Muk Tau on the north or Canton direction and Shum Chun on the south. The express trains from Kowloon and from Canton cross at Tong Tau Ha where there are two loop lines. The trains should normally have crossed at 2:02 p.m.

RAIL TRAFFIC SUSPENDED

Soviet Dispute With Manchukuo

Tokyo, Jan. 28.

Allegations of ill-treatment of Soviet employees by Japanese and Manchukuoans has led to a dispute between Soviet Russia and Manchukuo, according to a message received here.

As a result of the dispute, through traffic on the railway between Hulienho and Vladivostok which links the Eastern borders of Manchukuo with the Siberian port has been suspended by the Soviet authorities since the disagreement arose.

Mr. Ohmura, general manager, Manchukuo State Railway, has made a statement denying the Soviet allegations and declares that a thorough investigation goes to prove that they lack foundation.

Mr. Ohmura has also requested members of the Europe-Asia through traffic conference to urge the Soviet authorities to resume traffic.

GOVERNOR FOR CEYLON

“No Question Of Reconsideration”

Official Statement

The following official message from the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, was yesterday forwarded to the Press by the Colonial Secretary:—
From:—Secretary of State, London.
To:—Governor, Hong Kong.
Dated:—23rd January, 1937.
Received:—24th January, 1937.

“I have received telegram (1) from Unofficial Members of Executive Council, Hong Kong, and (2) from Chinese Members of Executive and Legislative Councils pressing strongly for your retention at Hong Kong on the ground of outstanding qualifications for the post and asking that the question of your transfer may be reconsidered. Please inform these gentlemen that I have read with pleasure their tribute to yourself and have every sympathy with their desire that your services should not be lost to Hong Kong, but that your appointment to Ceylon was decided upon for reasons of high public policy and that I regret there can be no question of its reconsideration.”

CHEUNG CHAU PRIZE GIVING

Mr. E.J. Edwards On Value Of Boy Scout Movement

Satisfactory Progress

A year of satisfactory progress was revealed at the annual speech day of the Cheung Chau Government School held yesterday afternoon when Mr. E. J. Edwards, Inspector of English Schools, distributed the prizes. In the course of a brief address, Mr. Edwards referred to the pleasant situation of the school and added how lucky the Cheung Chau boys were to be able to attend a school like that.

Referring to the Boy Scout Movement, Mr. Edwards said that it had many things to teach the boys and recommended all those who could to join.
The school hall was decorated with flags and after the function tea was served.

The Headmaster (Mr. Cheung Kim Pak) presided.

HEALTH RETURNS.

Seven cases of diphtheria, three from Hong Kong and four from Kowloon, and one of enteric fever, were reported for the 24 hours ended on Wednesday.

EAST AND WEST MUST BLEND

Bishop Yu's Inspiring Message

(From A Special Correspondent.)

We receive many distinguished visitors in Hong Kong. Is this, possibly, the reason that so often, like angels' visits, we only know that they have come when they have gone?

So I thought when I found myself among the privileged few who listened on Wednesday evening to a stimulating talk given at Ricci Hall by Monsignor Yu Pin, Catholic Bishop of Nanking.

He is a newly-consecrated Chinese bishop, the first to rule over the new Catholic diocese of Nanking. At the official reception tendered to him on his arrival the many notables present were impressed by the man and by his address. Briefly, one may say that he combines in his person what is best in Eastern and Western culture. To a scholarly knowledge of his own literature, graced by the peculiar charm of manner associated with the Chinese, he adds all the culture which many years of study in the West have rounded off in a triple doctorate. He is a Doctor of Civil Law of the famous Bologna University; he is a Doctor of Philosophy and of Divinity of Rome; and he expresses himself comfortably in English, French, Italian, Latin, besides being an impressive orator in his native Mandarin.

THROUGH THE AGES

King's Link With Ancient Monarch

A link between King George VI and King Cedric, who ruled over Wessex more than 1400 years ago, is referred to in the Constitutional Year Book for 1937 (Harrison and Sons) just published.

In an article on the Crown it states:—“The durability, the regularity, and the popularity of the English Monarchy are curiously illustrated by the statement made by more than one writer on the Constitution that from Egbert (A.D. 820) to our present King the blood of Cedric, the first King of Wessex (A.D. 519), has run in the veins of every English Sovereign, with the exception of Sweeney, Canute, Harold, and William the Conqueror.”

Malaria Epidemic In Trincomalee

Naval Base Transformed Into Hospital

FOURTH TEST MATCH

Slow And Easy Wicket Expected

Adelaide, Jan. 28.

England's probable players for the Fourth Test are Allen, Wyatt, Robins, Hammond, Hardstaff, Barnett, Fairs, Leyland, Verity, Voce and Ames.

Ames has slight recurrence of his back trouble. Duckworth may replace Hammond, who bruised his left hand while fielding but it is not serious.

The wicket is likely to be slow and easy. The weather promises to be warm.

Sian Embroglio

Shanghai, Jan. 28.

Negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the Sian embroglio are proceeding satisfactorily. The peace terms have not yet been disclosed. The difficulty is how to deal with the Communists.

General Yang Hu-cheng, rebellious Pacification Commissioner of Shensi Province, has accepted the substance of the Central Government's terms, but the control of the Shensi and Kansu armies by the Central Government, the localities for stationing the armies, and other questions will be left over for the Third Plenary Session of the Central Executive Committee to decide.

FUNERAL SERVICE ABOARD “POTSDAM”

At 11 a.m. yesterday the funeral service on board the A.S. Potsdam for the late Mr. Wilhelm Rex was held.

The dining room of the Potsdam had been decorated in an appropriate manner for the occasion. Many local Germans were present, Herr A. Gelewsky acting German Consul General, and Frau Gelewsky being present.

The service, conducted by the ship's parson, was opened by a hymn sung by the congregation. Thereafter the ship's orchestra played a funeral march, and the parson held the funeral oration. His touching words were followed by an address of the Captain, Herr O. Prehn, who was evidently deeply moved by the sad fate of Wilhelm Rex, who leaves behind a young wife and two small children.

The service was terminated by the band playing “Ich hat' einen Kameraden” (I had a comrade), during which the German salute was given by the congregation.

“H.K.R.A.” Bulletin

Informative Publication

Published by the Hong Kong Rifle Association, and functioning as the official organ of that organisation, The “H.K.R.A.” Bulletin is a worthy informative publication, judging by the current edition.

The major portion of the letterpress is devoted to a detailed account of the first annual dinner which was such a memorable success, and this excellent record is well supplemented by three full page photographs taken at that very happy function.

The Editorial points out the usefulness of the organisation and gives ample proof of the earnestness of the members in financially supporting a cause which they rightly deem of national as well as domestic significance.

Names of over three hundred members who have been awarded handicaps, an award being given only after three appearances on the ranges, are itemised in the final pages of this publication.

China's Postal Services

Report Published

The Ministry of Communications and Directorate General of Posts have just issued their report for the year July 1, 1934 to June 30, 1935 and, as in the case of the previous year, the compilation gives a very comprehensive survey, both in English and in Chinese, of the work of the Departments concerned.

The year under review opened with the convocation by the Ministry of Communications of a national postal conference when the chief postal officials of the country assembled to exchange views and consider measures for the improvement and greater efficiency of the service. As a result many resolutions, aiming at reform and development, were adopted, some of these having already been put into effect.

Coronation Publicity Media

The Coronation Publicity Subcommittee met last Tuesday evening and decided that the channels to be used for informing the public of both local and Empire coronation celebrations would be the Press, the Broadcast, and the Hong Kong Travel Association. All three have expressed their willingness to afford all possible assistance free of charge.

Some discussion took place regarding the suggested production of a Souvenir programme of the local celebrations. The suggestion was, however, discarded as it was ascertained that King George's Jubilee Trust will place on sale in all countries copies of the official Souvenir Programme of His Majesty's coronation. This will be on sale in Hong Kong bookshops about three weeks before the coronation.

The Programme will bear the Royal Coat of Arms in Colour and will consist of 32 pages. It will contain a special message from the King to the Empire and the full text of the Coronation Service together with an introduction to the Service by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The contents will include a special photograph of His Majesty and of other members of the Royal Family. Coronation verses by the Poet Laureate, an article entitled “The King's Majesty” by John Drinkwater, a short story of the King's life, and an explanatory article on the Coronation Ceremony and the Procession.

The Hong Kong Broadcasting Station hope to be able to relay the ceremony from Westminster Abbey and the possession of a copy of this Programme will enable listeners to follow the Service word for word. The public are therefore advised to order their copy from their booksellers now in order that a sufficient quantity may be obtained in time from England.

In addition to the relaying of as much as possible of the actual ceremony, the Hong Kong Broadcasting Station will also arrange a special local coronation programme.

The Hong Kong Travel Association will take steps to inform all likely visitors to the Colony of what they may expect to see and hear.

“Mysterious” Mr. Leff Leaves Hong Kong

BY W.A.S.

With the departure of Mr. M. Leff for Manila on the R. M. S. Empress of Japan to-day, Hong Kong remains baffled over an unprecedented enigma.

When Mr. Leff arrived in the Colony last Friday, on a round-the-world tour, the rumour preceded his coming that he was Ricardo Cortez, the famous movie star.

Reporters were busy as soon as he had checked-in at his hotel, and the fact that efforts to reach him were unsuccessful only strengthened the belief that a star of the first magnitude in Celluloid-land was in our midst. A representative of the “Daily Press,” finally had the pleasure of seeing a double of Ricardo Cortez coming nonchalantly into the lounge of the hotel.

“Are you Mr. Leff?” he was asked. The gentleman replied in the affirmative.

“Do you happen to be Ricardo Cortez travelling incognito?” He smiled and countered with the question, “Where did you get that idea from?”

INVESTITURE IN EDINBURGH

French Honour For Scotsman

"If, in these anxious times, there were more societies like the Franco-Scottish Society working for international amity and understanding, I think that this war-torn world of ours would soon be a better place to live in," said Mr. J. Liddie when the French Consul, M. L'Homme, presented him with the Cross of the Legion of Honour, recently bestowed by the French Government, at a reception given by the Scottish branch of the Franco-Scottish Society in the Oak Hall, Princes Street, Edinburgh, on January 9.

M. L'Homme congratulated Mr. Geddie on his work as general secretary of the Scottish branch of the Society, remarking how much he had appreciated his own stay in Scotland.

The president of the Society, Professor Orr, said that M. L'Homme had done a great deal to promote good fellowship. It was fitting that Edinburgh was the scene of his last public function before he took up a new post in Tripoli.

Mr. Geddie paid tribute to M. L'Homme, and thanked those present.

"CAN NEVER FORGET"

Legion Thanks Ex-King

"Earnest prayers for your Royal Highness's health and happiness" were included in a letter sent to the Duke of Windsor by the Edinburgh Council of the British Legion.

The proposal to send the letter was made by Dr. P. McLaren Shields, vice-president, and it was signed by the Earl of Haddington, who is the president; Dr. Shield; and Mr. J. P. Swannie the chairman.

"Incalculable Services"

The letter said:—"The British Legion Area Council of Edinburgh and the Lothians tender to your Royal Highness their heartfelt gratitude and thanks for your incalculable services to ex-Servicemen, and more especially for the great personal interest you have taken in the City of Edinburgh and in Scotland."

"The comradeship formed in the field of war and continued during those past arduous years we can never forget."

"While we must needs accept with sorrow and reluctance the great decisions you have taken, we desire most respectfully to assure you of our determination to preserve and maintain to the end the friendship and comradeship of the British Legion."

HOME FOOTBALL

London, Jan. 27. First-class football played in the British Isles to-day included Scottish Cup ties and a third division league encounter.

In the first round of the Scottish Cup, Hamilton visited Moor Park and won by seven goals to one, while Murrayfield, playing at home to Morton were held to a three-all draw. The remaining matches are being played on Saturday next.

In the English League game, Bristol City, at home to Bournemouth, won handsomely by four goals to one.

COMPANY LAW IN GERMANY

New Legislation Enacted

Berlin, Jan. 27.

The changes that the company law in Germany has undergone as a result of the new legislation, and which received governmental sanction on Tuesday, are considered by political circles here to be of considerable significance.

The statements that are being made in explanation of the new position lay emphasis on the fact that although National Socialism is in principle opposed to any form of anonymous association, nevertheless the new law, with regard to stocks and shares, vouchsafes the continued existence in Germany of joint stock companies on the grounds that they form part of the organic structure of German economy, and also because it is known that the vast amounts of capital needed nowadays by the industry cannot be procured in any other way.

The point that should not be overlooked is that the shareholder who puts his capital at the disposal of an industrial effort, does not have to assume full liability, whereas the annual meeting of the shareholders, which henceforth has the duty of electing the governing board, is given purely advisory power. This means that in future decisions in regard to the balance sheet will be made by the board of directors, instead of by the general meeting.

The governing or supervising board is retained by the new law as organic part of a share company's constitution, apart from the board of directors and the general meeting of shareholders, but this governing board must henceforth not consist of more than 20 members, and one person must not belong to more than 10 governing boards. As already reported, it is made a point in the new law that the money paid to the members of the boards for services rendered or by way of bonuses must be in keeping with the actual situation of the company's finances, and also commensurate with the company's allocations to its personnel for "social" purposes.

Fees and bonuses must be curtailed during a period of business depression. Finally this new legislation, which Reichminister Dr. Guertner (Justice), in an interview, says, establishes primacy of the Reich over the country's economic life, stipulates that the joint stock companies must at any time be prepared to submit their books to the State Attorney for examination. The State Attorney is given power to seek, through the law courts, a reduction of dividend by any joint stock company, when these are deemed to be excessive.

Husband And Wife In Court

Robbery Alleged

Appearing on remand before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon Lam Li-wong, 30, and Chan Hok-mui 23 his wife, were charged with robbing Ho Yim-lan, a married woman of gold ornaments, clothing and money amounting to about $480.

Detective Inspector A. H. Elston, who prosecuted, said that complainant was principle tenant of 172 Yee Kuk Street, first floor, and the two defendants were her sub-tenants, occupying the middle cubicle in her flat.

In November last complainant asked defendants to move to a bed space in the passage, because they were four months behind rent.

Early in the morning on November 14, defendants approached complainant with a chopper, tied and gagged her, and forced her into a room with a little space opened for fresh air, and where she could see her children who were crying as the result of the excitement. They ransacked the place until about 7.30 in the morning when they left with the gate locked behind them.

Complainant was freed by her servant girl and called for help. Later the police arrived. The defendants were arrested at Swatow on January 4. Most of the clothing were recovered, with the exception of the gold ornaments.

The case was adjourned until to-day.

MISADVENTURE VERDICT

Mrs. Anderson's Death Inquest

The third day's inquest into the death of Mrs. J. F. Anderson, whose tragic and sudden demise occurred in the New Territories last Christmas Day, concluded yesterday when the jury brought in the verdict of "death by misadventure."

Mr. C. Kennedy Skipton sat as coroner and the jury was composed of Messrs. F. G. Barros, (foreman), W. C. Tillery, Jr., and Lam Hew-cho.

Sgt. Britten appeared on behalf of the police.

The first witness was the driver of the lorry into which the Andersons' car crashed, Fong Wah, of 284, Reclamation Street, first floor, said that he was carrying a load of metal bars and cement on his truck on Christmas Day. With him at the time were his employees, Wong Yue-long and a fook, Chiu Kwai. The bars projected on both the front and back of the truck and he was proceeding at the rate of ten miles an hour until he stopped the truck on seeing another one parked on the wrong side of the road.

He also stated that he had no licence to carry a projecting load on the front of the truck and could not possibly prevent the accident that occurred.

Wong Yue-long, of 653, Shanghai Street, second floor, and the owner of the truck, corroborated the evidence of his driver.

Lo Wing-on, of 115, Yuen Choi Street, first floor, and the driver of the parked truck, stated that he was carrying a load of bricks for the Yu Fat Company to Tsun Wan.

He parked the truck on the right side of the road as the coolies had to unload on that side and then left to deliver some bills. He was not present at the time of the accident.

This concluded the evidence, and the jury then brought in their verdict of death by misadventure.

LORD MONTAGU OF BEAULIEU

To Be Youngest At Coronation

A number of peers who are under the age of 21 will attend the Coronation ceremony, writes a London correspondent.

At the Coronation of King Edward VII all peers over the age of ten years were invited to attend. The same age limit is likely to be decided upon this time. The "Evening Standard" was informed to-day that this will allow for the attendance of 19 minor peers out of a total number of 26 "minors."

The youngest on the list will be Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, who was ten years old last October and who succeeded his father, the second Baron at the age of three. Lord Compton will be 11, while both Lord Swansea and Lord Monk Bretton will be 12.

The Earl of Gainsborough will be the youngest earl to be present. He will be 14 next October. Other minor peers of his age are Lord Herschell, whose father was a Lord-in-Waiting to King Edward VII, and to King George V., and Lord Foley.

EARL JELICOE

Among the young earls who will attend are Earl Jellicoe and Earl Haig. Both will be 19 at the time of the Coronation, the same age as the Earl of Craven.

Another earl, Lord Devon, will be 21 this year, but not until July. Of the minor Peers, the two holding the highest rank will be the Marquess Townshend, who celebrates his 21st birthday on the day following the Coronation ceremony and the Marquess of Lansdowne, who will also be in his 21st year. Lord Lansdowne, who only succeeded to the title last year, ranks second, and Lord Townshend third, on the roll of Marquesses of England, the premier Marquess being Lord Winchester. The first Marquess of Winchester received that rank in 1551, and he held the office of Lord Treasurer of England during the reigns of Edward VI, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth.

History records that when asked how he had continued to preserve the Treasurership through these changeable years, he replied: "By being a willow not an oak."

Founder Of Church Army

The King and Queen sent their congratulations and good wishes to Prebendary Carlile, founder and hon. chief secretary of the Church Army, on January 14, on the occasion of his ninetieth birthday. The event was celebrated at a luncheon in the Church Army headquarters, Bryanston Street, W.

The message, read by Lord Darnley, who presided, was as follows:—

"The King and Queen send you their heartiest congratulations on your ninetieth birthday and join with your many friends in hoping that you may be spared to continue your splendid work."

Greetings and good wishes were also sent by Queen Mary, the Princess Royal, Lady Maud Carnegie, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, the Bishop of Southwark, Dr. Frank Buchman, General Evangelina Booth, and others.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said that the Chief of the Church Army was still charged with an amount of electrical force which neither he nor anybody else could always control. (Laughter and cheers.) When they spoke of him as 90 that was only an arithmetical expression. There were, happily, old people, among whom he began to count himself, who remained invincibly young, and the greatest of these elderly youngsters was the Chief of the Church Army. (Cheers.) The Chief had never faltered throughout his life to throw fire and zeal into the greatest enterprise in the world—the bringing of living souls within the Fellowship of Christ.

Lord Horder said: "Here is a man who has had the audacity to have arrived at the age of 90 without having sought my advice." (Laughter and cheers.) He said he thought that the secret of the Chief's longevity was faith and selflessness in his great work.

Work In The Prisons

Mr. H. R. Scott, chairman of the Prison Commissioners, thanked Prebendary Carlile and his helpers for all that they had done in English prisons for many years.

Sir Rollo Graham-Campbell, speaking as Chief Metropolitan Magistrate and as a member of the London Police Court Mission, bore testimony to the enormous value of the work of the Church Army in helping the magistrates and the London Police Court missionaries to give fresh hope and a new start to persons who had got into trouble.

Further tributes to Prebendary Carlile and the Church Army were paid by Commissioner H. M. Mapp, Salvation Army, Prebendary W. W. Cook, general secretary, Church Missionary Society; Dr. J. C. Carlile (editor of the "Baptist Times") on behalf of the Free Churches; the Bishop of Fulham, and others.

Prebendary Carlile's Reply

Prebendary Carlile, in reply, said he felt that too much of the praise

PAY HOMAGE

The peers take an important part in the Coronation ceremony and it falls to them to pay homage to their Sovereign. After the Princes of the Blood Royal, have rendered homage in their turn, the peers remove their coronets, and pay homage rank by rank, kneeling in their places. Only the senior of each rank, for himself and for his Order, actually kneels before the King, touching the Crown and kissing the King's left cheek.

had been given to himself and not enough to the workers in the Church Army. Among their hardest workers were people who had been through intolerable ordeals and had been even worse than outcast. They were present at the luncheon as invited guests. One had served a number of sentences of penal servitude and five years as an habitual criminal. Now for the past 19 years he had been in one job, doing rough work, mostly at night time, and was a great Church Army worker.

"It rejoices my heart," Prebendary Carlile added, "Dear friends, we are very proud to have you here, and perhaps more proud to have our convict friend than to have even the Archbishop here to-day. I feel this is a day of rejoicing to you, but a day of humiliation for me. I have been supported by the Archbishops and all the Bishops in the country, and by many of the leading men and women."

"I have had money sent to me. All has been sent and yet there are still criminals, people sleeping out, people who do not say a prayer or go to church. Why has there not been a greater result? God help us to join in this great Holy War."

ROYAL INDIAN NAVY

Improved Rates Of Pay

The Secretary of State for India has sanctioned improved rates of pay and a new scale of allowances for officers of the Executive and Engineer branches of the Royal Indian Navy, formerly the Royal Indian Marine.

This Service was reorganized on a combatant basis in 1923, and its code of discipline was finally brought into line with that of the other Navies of the British Commonwealth by the passage of the Indian Navy (Discipline) Act in 1934. His Majesty's Indian ships fly the White Ensign, and the Squadron is at present under the command of a Flag Officer seconded from the Royal Navy.

The new rates of pay will have effect from July 1, 1936. The improvements consist in the introduction of an allowance to married officers on attaining 30 years of age, ranging from Rs.125 per mensem to Rs.200 per mensem, and of an Indian element, for European officers, ranging from Rs.75 per mensem to Rs.200 per mensem. Special concessions in respect of shore allowance and of compensatory allowance at Bombay have been introduced for married officers. Simultaneously new sterling rates of furlough pay have also been introduced. A higher scale which provides for differential rates for married officers over 30 years of age will be drawn for the first eight months leave ex-India, ranging from £240 per annum for an unmarried sub-lieutenant to £970 per annum for a married captain. A lower scale will be drawn for any period of leave in excess of eight months.

An announcement of improved rates of pensions for commissioned officers will be made shortly.

The father of these Bonny Twins writes:—

"I enclose a photograph of my twins—Peter and Hazel aged 4½ years. I think you will agree that, for children who at birth were under nine, in weight and very delicate they are now bonny kiddies."

"My wife was very ill after the babies were born and was unable to sleep at night. A friend recommended 'Ovaltine' and I am glad to say that her health gradually improved and she was again able to enjoy a good night's rest."

"Later when the youngsters were older 'Ovaltine' was added to their milk. Ever since then they have always had at least two cups a day."

"My wife still has a cup of 'Ovaltine' every night and I must confess that for the last couple of years I have joined them. I feel very much better in myself for doing so."

Ready for their Bedtime
OVALTINE

A cup of delicious 'Ovaltine' and so to bed... for a long night of deep, dreamless sleep. In the morning they will awake bright-eyed and vigorous, ready for another happy, active day. 'Ovaltine' is the perfect bedtime and daytime beverage for children. Made from the highest qualities of malt, milk and eggs. It supplies every food element they need to build up sturdy bodies, sound nerves and abundant vitality. They love its delightful flavour, too.

Even those children who dislike milk drink it eagerly when 'Ovaltine' is added. And 'Ovaltine' has special properties which make milk much more nourishing and digestible.

In fact, 'Ovaltine' is the ideal beverage for every member of the family—and the most economical, too. For 'Ovaltine' gives you more in health-giving ingredients—more in quantity and more in quality.

What's Fred Been Doing To His Hair?

It was Getting Very Thin, He was Going Bald

—THEN HE STARTED HARLENE-HAIR-DRILL

And what a difference it made. His hair soon began to grow again. The bald patches disappeared and he's looking younger than ever. His friends were amazed. Harlene-Hair-Drill simply performs wonders. You should try it to-day.

Special Notice To Ladies with

FAIR HAIR

"HARLENE" Camellia Golden Hair Wash is a daily preparation which cleanses and treats the beauty of fair hair, and gives it that glorious light-gold sunshine touch. Unbelievably fascinating and beautiful. Just the thing for hair that has become dull and lost its lustre.

HARLENE HAIR GROWER AND TONIC

The greatest Hair Restorer for both sexes. Banishes baldness, falling hair, lifeless hair, brittle hair, too-dry or too-greasy scalp, etc. Infuses new life and vitality into each hair follicle and revives the weakened tresses. Quickly brings back youthful appearance.

CREMEX SHAMPOO

No hair can be healthy unless it is cleansed thoroughly to remove dust and deposits, etc. Shampoo with "CREMEX". Its generous creamy lather is delightfully refreshing and super-cleansing. It frees the hair from every trace of Sebum and Dandruff and is most beneficial to the scalp. FREE Burnishing Rinse included.

UZON-BRILLIANTINE

"UZON" gives just that final touch of distinction to the coiffure and is invaluable to those with overdyed hair. Keeps newly hair in place and preserves that well-groomed appearance throughout the whole day. In Liquid or Solidified form.

Sailor Hats To Come With The Spring

Little "sailor" styles in hats always come in with spring-time, but Madame Suzy has some new and piquant notions. The fancy boater is going to be a chic idea in the 1938 spirit with floral trimmings and low crowns. Brims vary from frankly flat to muffled ridged ones, and both follow the line of crown fittings on a short dimension of elegant shape.

A single-brimmed shape of fancy white straw in this category drops a shadow over the eyes at a right-angle and shows a band of black gros-grain to correspond with one at the top of crown sloping, as it were, in semi-high flower-pot fashion, with a single dark red rose perching on one side centre front. It is called "Dame à la rose".

Other fancy boaters have bunches of flowers that dip brims straight forward and backward above the nape. Take briar rose bunches without foliage as an example on black bengale for smart shape which is given a change from flowers to a bow arrange-

Short crowns apply to double brims with muffled ridges as well as those that are completely flat and rigid. Both have a Spanish air, with one in black cre straw of soutache cording persuasion and the other intended for bankok, bengale, "paper panama," or one of the new fancy stiff straws. The former is given a crown blind of red velvet ribbon shooting out at the back in two thin narrow lines. Side slottings in the latter take a chin strap with green pom-poms.

The Spanish idea is not overdone, but achieved in an amazingly smart manner by Madame Suzy, who takes another characteristic motif for a "tambourine" beret. Interesting, too, is an Iranian beret of machine-stitched royal blue felt with a rolled-up outline beneath a designed crown, which is ornamented at the back by a red gros-grain bow with tails.

AROUND THE SHOPS

LANE, CRAWFORD'S

The first shipment of smart prints for afternoon wear have just been received. They are in a great variety of colours made up in the latest and smartest designs, in silk and georgette. One model had the very full pleated sleeves with high neck, and skirt on the short side. The selection on show were all very snappy and are just the thing for the coming race meeting.

RIVELLE

Rivelle's clearance sale ends in a few days, and further reductions have been made, in fact most evening gowns are sold practically below cost, as well as suits, coats and hats, to make room for the new goods expected shortly.

MAYOS

Have received a new consignment of extra smart evening gowns, and a big selection in autumn millinery.

Colour In Ways That Are New

The latest fabrics show new methods of adding streaks and splashes of all colours to dark weaves. Stitchery gives an impression of different shadings; a streak running through a material gives a similar effect. Braids in old and new composition, like fringes and strange borderings, suggest a colour story. Embroideries, from soutache to sequins, have been restored to the favour they enjoyed at the beginning of the century.

New York, English and French designers exploited to advantage many self-coloured embroideries in the early autumn. The vogue was taken up quickly into a medley of lovely colours in wool-work, beads, glamorous gems and sequins, so already is it a season in which trimmings, weaves and handwork play a part. Dusted gold and silver weaves introduced in black and dark woollen materials are still popular. These gleaming touches do much to relieve the deadness of black, and yet allow its note of distinction to remain. A black ensemble of wool flecked with gold or silver-dust can be worn at all times and places. With a plain coat of fabric or fur and a satin cap it is smart from the lunch hour till supper or cinema party.

For evening wear the all-black satin frock can now have a little embroidered jacket of chenille and soutache, studded with bright beads. Short basqued coats are attractive in stripes of shaded sequins. The newer ways of treating sequins and coloured embroidery is always gay and pleasing, especially in these little coats, and there is nothing garish or over-dressed about them.

In spite of shorter skirts for day time, costumes for the cocktail hour still show ankle-length skirts, formal accents of pleating, and the use of printed lace, such as is used on this jacket frock in golden tan sheer crepe, included in the spring wardrobe of Gloria Stuart, 20th Century-Fox player. Pleated panels, edged by lace, trim both the back and the front of the skirt, and similar panel is used at the back of the three quarter length jacket. The bodice is of gold lace, printed in rich orange and copper tones.

Those Fish-Coloured BLACK AND ORANGE! Hats

To remind the audience that some of the colours in a collection of American hats shown in London were inspired by tropical fishes, a tank full of fish was placed on a table in the centre of the room.

But the types of fish chosen were, apparently, unequal to the demand of the designer. Most of them appeared to be goldfish in various stages of development.

Hats, on the other hand, were expressed in Amberjack beige, dolphin green, angel-fish blue, red snapper (bright red), pompano brown, Regan red and other unusually named colours.

Models of other kinds were equally dramatic. High spots in the collection were flowers and fruit made from feathers, brims with coloured ray stripes against a cream back-

Advance model for spring—hat of rough black straw trimmed with mimosa.

"LAMB" COST

Bleached Persian lamb creates one of the season's smartest little coats. It was worn by Juanita Quigley during a recent visit to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Fashioned swaggy style, the coat had a matching Cosack hat. White mittens, shoes and socks completed outfit.

ROYAL VISIT TO HOLYROOD

State Entry Into City

Edinburgh is expecting the King and Queen to be in residence at the Palace of Holyrood House for a week during July, the probable date of their arrival being July 5.

Among the suggestions for the visit is a State entry into the city.
The stay at Holyrood House will be marked by brilliant social functions, including a drawing room and a garden party.
Many people are hoping that the King and Queen will be accompanied by Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose.

The Duke of Gloucester
Although no official intimation has been received by the Church of Scotland, it is reported that the Duke of Gloucester is to be appointed Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland which meets in May.

The Duke is suspending his military studies at the Staff College, Camberley, it is understood, so that he may be able to fulfil many of the engagements connected with the Coronation.

puted to be one of the most gifted of the younger Russian military leaders, will be given a high military rank in European Russia, possibly as Deputy Military Governor of Ukraine.
General Sangurski will be transferred to the European zone in March. His successor in the Far East is not yet named.

SMOOTH NEGOTIATIONS

Shanghai, Jan. 27.
Negotiations at Tungkuwan between representatives of the Nanking Government and the northern rebel leaders are proceeding
cordially, according to a message from Loyang.
The despatch adds that General Chang Hsueh-lang's troops may shortly pledge allegiance to the Central Government, which would cut in half the force at the disposal of the Shensi insurgents.
The fact that a settlement appears to be near raises the prospect of military action, due to commence at noon to-morrow, may be postponed again to enable Yang
Hu-cheng to reconsider his position.

THESE THREE

Samuel Goldwyn's new production, "These Three," which brings Miriam Hopkins, Merle Oberon and Joel McCrea to the Star Theatre is the most powerful and gripping drama to reach the screen in many a cinema season.

Offering all three stars the acting opportunities of their lives, brilliantly concocted by Lillian Hellman, famous Broadway playwright, magnificently produced, and expertly directed by William Wyler, "These Three" boasts something new to film fans in dramatic situations, knit together with a skill that results in smart-paced, smooth and unforgettable entertainment. And Bonita Granville, the 12-year-old, who plays the spiteful schoolgirl, whose vicious motives the story is one of the great "hitting" discoveries of motion picture history.

DAMAGED LIVES

Devotees of the motion picture will find something different in film entertainment at the Alhambra Theatre, with "Damaged Lives," which is showing to-day. It is a Weldon Production, which is sponsored by the American Social Hygiene Association.

Here is a picture which is not only a dramatic portrayal of intense interest, but it also conveys a definite lesson to both adults and adolescents of the danger lurking for the thoughtless in the so-called "social diseases."

It tells in gripping fashion of a young boy who, just prior to his marriage, foolishly, and almost ingenuously, is lured into a woman he takes home from a gay party. When she later discovers that she has, unknown to herself, been infected with disease, she fears for the boy's health and warns him, and then, in despair commits suicide.

Now married, the boy is horrified to learn from his physician that he also has contracted the disease and transmitted it to his wife, and that it may imperil the health of the baby that is soon to be born. The working out of their salvation by their doctor is at one and the same time, excellent screen entertainment, and a definite message of hope to those already victims of this malady, or others who might later contract it.

THANK YOU, JEEVES!

Presenting that sudden young lady, Virginia Field.

Sudden is the name for Virginia, even to the making of important decisions. It is doubtful if the lovely young actress, who is featured with Arthur Treacher and David Niven in "Thank You, Jeeves!" Twentieth Century-Fox picture, showing at the Queen's Theatre to-day, will ever reconcile herself to studied, leisurely decisions again.

She has had too much luck with her impulses. Born in London, Miss Field was sent to Vienna a little more than a year ago, to attend school. Just two days after her arrival, she was offered a role in a stage production and immediately gave up all thoughts to school to become an actress.

Virginia accepted on the spot and departed for Hollywood. Four hours after landing in the movie capital, Virginia was preparing for her first screen role.

In "Thank You, Jeeves!" Virginia plays the "Lady in Distress," with Arthur Treacher as Wodehouse's imperturbable "Gentleman's Gentleman" and David Niven as the middle-headed Bertie Wooster.

The story, briefly, depicts how the ugly lie invented by an unruly student in a private girls' school, involving her two teachers, Miriam and Merle, and the latter's doctor, led to their lives. Due to the result, scandal, the school is lost, the romance broken and almost unbearable suffering and humiliation is visited upon these three innocent people, before the lie is brought to light.

BIG BROADCAST OF 1937
Jack Benny, who heads the cast in "The Big Broadcast of 1937" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, plays the violin accompaniment to a baroque solo played by Bob Burns, who invented the instrument.

BIG BROADCAST OF 1937

Top radio personalities have ready-made audiences that can turn them into screen personalities by the twist of a figurative dial. This has been clinched by the case of Bob "Bazooka" Burns, Arkansas traveller and dispenser of homely wit who appears in the galaxy of radio and screen stars Paramount has assembled for "The Big Broadcast of 1937," showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Burns was unknown to the screen only a few months ago. He had a sensational rise in the radio world, because of his "Music Hall of the Air."

In "The Big Broadcast of 1937" where he appears with Jack Benny, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Martha Raye, Benny Goodman and his Swing Orchestra, and Leopold Stokowski and his Symphony Orchestra, Burns depicts the fortunes of a "Bazooka" virtuoso in quest of the main chance in the ranks of the celebrated symphony aggregation of Stokowski. It's a madcap story, poking sly fun, at radio and the producers look for even greater popularity for Burns after the picture has been seen throughout the country.

ARLENE BANCROFT

To Appear On The Roof Garden

Appearing at the Roof Garden, Hong Kong Hotel to-morrow night is the well-known American acrobatic dancer Arlene Bancroft. Patrons are assured of a good night's entertainment as Miss Bancroft is one of the best exponents of acrobatic dancing.

Of a charming personality, her numbers are a perfect combination of dancing and daring acrobatics which are both thrilling and pleasing.

Miss Bancroft has toured extensively having delighted audiences in all parts of the world including the United States of America, Canada, Mexico, India, Africa and Europe.

HEIRS OF HARUN EL RASHID

Museum Of Arab Antiquities

National pride in the young Iraqi State has been flattered by King Chaz's recent opening of the Museum of Arab Antiquities in Baghdad.

Like the Southern Irish, the Iraqis have an abnormally developed historical sense. They consider themselves the heirs of Harun el Rashid, King Alfred's contemporary, and the Caliphs of Baghdad.

The main exhibits belong to the immediate post-Harun el Rashid era. Rooms of the ninth century have been reconstructed in the museum. These and the household utensils of the period indicate the luxurious life of the time.

Part of the collection is a gift from the British Museum and from the museum in Cairo.

The new museum is housed in Khan Mirjan, a fourteenth-century building in the centre of the city. Until taken over for its present purpose it was used as offices.

BURNING THE CLAVIE

Mr. MacDonald
Watches Bonfire

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Lord President of the Council, witnessed the burning of the clavie at Burghhead, Morayshire, on January 11. The clavie consists of a half barrel filled with timber and tar. When it blazed cheers were raised for the King and the Queen and for Mr. MacDonald. The burning mass was afterwards carried through the streets and ultimately placed on a stone altar on the top of a hill. Fresh fuel was added and the bonfire was then smothered to pieces, spectators rushing forward for bits of the burning faggots, which are claimed to bring good luck.

Burning the clavie is believed by the people of Burghhead to drive evil spirits away for 1937. It is a survival of an old form of "fire worship."

EDINBURGH—ROYAL COURT

From the Lord Chamberlain's announcement that an evening Court is to be held in Edinburgh in July it may be assumed that the oak-panelled Throne Room in the Palace of Holyroodhouse will present a scene of imposing splendour seldom equalled in all its history. The announcement is particularly gratifying to Scotswomen who felt that an afternoon Drawing Room could never be so impressive as the Courts held at Buckingham Palace. Although there are no official instructions as to dress, it is likely that full Court dress will be worn, with regulation trains and ostrich feather head-dresses for ladies attending, and Court dress (ceremonial uniform) for men. At the previous Drawing Rooms ladies wore afternoon dresses of the garden-party style, with picture hats.

WOMEN SENT TO SESSIONS

Possession Of Heroin Alleged

So Mi Chan, 29, Chung Chin Yau, 23 and Wong Lin, 21, three women of 45, Pokfulam Road were committed to stand their trial in the next Criminal Sessions when they appeared before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, charged with the possession of 27,900 heroin pills and five ounces of pink mass at the above residence on January 13 last.

The acting Assistant Crown Solicitor, Mr. J. P. Murphy, who prosecuted, stated that on January 13 last at 7 a.m. Senior Revenue Officer Grimmitt and a party of men raided the ground floor of 45, Pokfulam Road. Mr. Grimmitt knocked at the door but the defendants refused to open it. Later the door was slightly opened but it was supported by an iron grill. The second prisoner had a few keys with her and Mr. Grimmitt stretched his hands through the door and seized it.

The first thing Mr. Grimmitt noticed were the heroin pills which were lying in packets on the bed of the first defendant. She was apparently trying to hide them under the bed. In the rear cubicle there was a heroin pill factory and a drying cupboard which was newly made. The windows of the room were tightly closed and had curtains over them.

On being questioned the first defendant said, "I was employed there as a cook only." The second said, "I get $5 per month from an unknown person to work here." The third added, that she had nothing to say.

After evidence was given by Senior Revenue Officer Grimmitt, Mr. H. A. Taylor and interpreters, the defendants were committed to stand their trial at the next Criminal Sessions.

Heroin Factory Raided

Heavy Fine On Woman

Lui Lin, a woman of O'Brien Road was brought before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning, on the charge of possession of 93,500 heroin pills on January 19, last, and was sentenced to a year's hard labour. A fine of $2,500 with the alternative of six months' hard labour was also imposed on the defendant.

S. R. O. Grimmitt stated that on January 19, last, at 9.40 p.m., R. O. Stephens, acting on instructions, raided No. 1, O'Brien Road, first floor. There was no answer when Mr. Stephens knocked at the door so it was forced open.

Mr. Stephens entered the first cubicle and found the defendant lying on a bed. On looking under the bed it was seen that two leather suit cases were placed under it. The suit cases were opened and in them were the heroin pills.

Mr. Grimmitt stated that the Acting Crown Solicitor had instructed him to ask for the maximum penalty. $

BANISHEE CAUGHT

Sent To Sessions For Trial

A banishee, Chan Tah Cheung, 29, unemployed, deported from the Colony on February 23, 1936, for a period of ten years, who was arrested by C213, Lum Lo, on January 20 at Gage Street near Peel Street, was committed to stand his trial at the next Criminal Sessions when he appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

Evidence was given by C213, who stated that the defendant admitted he was a banishee, Sergeant A. J. R. Crossman also gave evidence regarding the defendant's finger prints.

Yu Kau Yu, a police interpreter, told the Court that when he cautioned him, the defendant said, "I was banished."

The defendant was accordingly committed to the sessions.

Coolies Fight On Wharf

All Bound Over

Lui Luk, 24, Chan Man, 28, Tsai Tung-pui, 23, and Ngai Kin-wing, 19, were brought before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning for assaulting Wu Hai Kit, 19, at Douglas Wharf on Sunday last.

Det.-Insp. Bentley stated that on Sunday morning the defendants struck the complainant with an iron rod.

The defendant's story was that the complainant threw their bamboo poles into the sea which caused them to strike him. Mr. Bentley

Opium Divan In Dockyard

Chinese Fireman Discharged

Fung Fat, 31, a fireman of 7 Wing Fung Street, second floor, was discharged when he appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy for (a) the possession of prepared opium on board H. M. Tug St. Monance on Friday last and (b) keeping an opium divan in the Naval Dockyard on the same day.

Senior Revenue Officer Grimmitt stated that the Naval authorities had a lot of trouble with these cases, Mr. Grimmitt adding that he had no authority to raid these places but if he did he would make a good job of it.

Giving the facts of the case Mr. Grimmitt stated that on Friday, last, Acting Sergeant W. Stafford of the Naval Dockyard Police and party raided the tug St. Monance. They entered the crew's quarters and found some men smoking there. There was a commotion when the police arrived and some of them threw some parcels into the sea.

One of the men named Ho So Kau was arrested and it was he who gave information that the defendant was the owner of the divan. Later the defendant was arrested.

Bankruptcy Court

In the Bankruptcy Court yesterday the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, heard an application brought by Lam Li-shi and Chan Chiu-shi for an order against Ngai Sz-yam, trustee of the bankrupt Wing Hing Bank and Li Wing-kwong and Li Shun-fah, partners thereof, for such dividends as might be due in respect of proofs lodged by Li Yuk-tong for $32,035.47 on July 13, 1926, by Li Yuk-tong for $121,600 on January 5, 1929, and by Li Kam-tong, Li Shun-tong and Li Yuk-tong for $20,990 on the same date.

The Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jun, instructed by Mr. F. H. Loxby, appeared for the applicants, and Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C. represented Ngai Sz-yam, the respondent, on the instructions of Mr. M. M. Watson.

Mr. D'Almada informed the Court that the Wing Hing Bank went bankrupt in 1925 and the applicants were assignees of certain proofs of debts lodged in 1926 and 1929, amounting to about $224,000. These proofs had never been formally rejected by the trustee.

The first assignment of these proofs was made to Lam Li-shi on December 11, 1929, and she in turn assigned it to the second applicant on February 16, 1934. In this assignment was an irrevocable power of attorney to claim payments and receive dividends. In any event, assuming that that was not so, the Court had authority to grant leave to the assignee to substitute her proof in place of the consignor.

Mr. D'Almada submitted that the fact that there had been no rejection by the trustee, entitled the claimants to receive dividends in respect of the sums mentioned.

Mr. Sheldon remarked the real answer to the claimants' case was that in fact his client had rejected the proofs. The trustee had only one desire and that was to pay dividends to the creditors, but he refused to pay claimants because he did not believe their claims were genuine.

Counsel concluded by asking the Court to dismiss the application. His Lordship held that the claimants being the assignees were not entitled to receive payments on behalf of the assignor, though they were at liberty to substitute the proofs for the consignor. Costs were given to the respondent.

MARINE COURT CASES

Boarding Offence

Before the Hon. Commander G. F. Hole, at the Marine Court yesterday morning, three Chinese women, Wong Sze 30, Chan Choi 25 and Leung Ho 23, were charged with boarding the s.s. Newchwang on Wednesday last without the permission of the master, or the officer-on-duty of the ship.

All the defendants pleaded guilty, and were each fined $20 or two weeks' hard labour in default.

MAKING FAST TO SHIPS

A fine of $10 or in default one week's hard labour, each, was imposed on two Chinese coxswains Kwok Pak, 38, and Leung So, 27, who were charged with unlawfully making fast their respective launches to the s.s. Hong Kheng, whilst she was underway in Victoria Harbour at about 8.40 a.m. on Friday last.

ANOTHER COXSWAIN FINED

Wong Shu-kai, coxswain of the steam launch Kwong On, who was charged with (a) unlawfully making fast his launch to the s.s. Danmark, whilst the latter was underway in Victoria Harbour at about 9.15 a.m. on Tuesday last, and (b) failing to stop his launch when called upon to do so by the Police was fined $10 or one week's hard labour on the first charge, and $30 or three weeks' hard labour on the second count.

added that there were about ten coolies who assaulted the complainant but they could only manage to get four. It was merely competition and disorder on the Wharfs.

Each of the defendants were bound over in the sum of $50 for a year.

CHEUNG CHAU

Headmaster's Report
The Headmaster said in part:—We are very fortunate to-day in having our Inspector, Mr. E. J. Edwards, to give away the prizes. This is, as far as I know, his first visit to our School and in the name of the School I extend to him our most cordial welcome.

The school-year under review commenced on September 9, 1935 and ended on July 25, 1936. The maximum enrolment in the year was 62 as compared with 64 in the previous year. The average attendance was 57.3 which showed a slight increase over last year's 56.7.

Examination
The annual examination was held in July, 1936 when 52 boys were examined both in English and in Chinese, 46 or 88 per cent. passed in the former and 94.2 per cent. in the latter. Generally speaking our boys were good in vernacular and in subjects such as geography, hygiene, and drawing, fairly good in composition, grammar and oral work, and poor in dictation. Attention of the masters has been drawn to remedy the weak points.

Discipline remains satisfactory. The prefects and student-librarians did their usual lot to carry on the school work smoothly. All the members of the Staff have supported me loyally and enthusiastically and I wish to take this opportunity to thank them.

Mr. Edwards' Speech
Mr. Edwards, in the course of a brief speech, said that the boys in Cheung Chau could learn a great deal from observation that their school fellows in town schools could only learn through books.

"It is good to see that physical training as well as organised games are catered for," said Mr. Edwards. "The introduction of the group system for games is a step in the right direction, and it is to be preferred to the old inter-class competitions—producing as it does greater keenness between more equally balanced teams."

"I hope your headmaster will be successful in getting more boys to join the school Boy Scouts Troop. Scouting has many things to teach you. It will teach you among other things to be self-reliant, and to use your hands as well as your eyes. I recommend all of you who can to join," Mr. Edwards concluded.

Holiday Granted
Master Lau Kin-man, from Class 7, then came forward and on behalf of the school asked Mr. Edwards if he would kindly grant a holiday in honour of the occasion.

Mr. Edwards: With pleasure, and I wish you all a very happy holiday during the Chinese New Year. (Applause.)

Three hearty cheers and a tiger were given for Mr. Edwards after which the gathering dispersed.

Scholarship and Prize List
Government Scholarships:—Cheung Tsun-ming (Class 5); To Pak-shing (Class 6); Yu Lai-shing (Class 7); Wong Man-ngai (Class 8).

Autobiography Of Kipling

For some time before his death Rudyard Kipling had been engaged on a volume of autobiographical memoirs which he called "Something of Myself: For My Friends Known and Unknown." The book, which will be published by Macmillan's on February 18, is full of interesting particulars of the author's personal life in India, America, South Africa, and England, the circumstances in which several of his major works came into being, and the ideas and ideals which give them their special form and nature.

After an opening chapter, "A Very Young Person," which reveals how closely "Baa, Baa, Black Sheep" followed the story of Kipling's own experiences when he came to England as a child, the author turns to "The School Before Its Time" and the origins of "Stalky and Co.," and so to "Seven Years' Hard" on the Lahore "Civil and Military Gazette" and the "Pioneer of Allahabad."

False Pretences
Charge

Li Nam, 24, unemployed was brought before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday charged with aiding one Chung Tak who was not in custody, and with obtaining money by false pretences.

Outlining the case, Sgt. Hutchinson said that defendant, under the direction of Chan went into a grocery shop which belonged to Cheung Chung Ho, and induced him to sign a contract for a quantity of oil.

On January 6, he took 12 tins and said that they were oil, and sold them to Cheung for a sum of $37. The tins were opened by Cheung, and he found that they only contained water.

On January 21, defendant and his partner intended to play the same trick on another shop, but was recognised by one of the foks who used to work in Cheung's shop. He informed the police and had him arrested.

Defendant was bound over in the sum of $50 for one year, and ordered to repay the $50 to Cheung failing which he would have to serve six weeks' in gaol.

POKFULAM ROAD
TRAGEDYLorry Kills Three
Pedestrians

An appalling motor tragedy occurred during the early hours of yesterday morning when three lives were lost on the spot.

Running out of control down the steep incline of Pokfulam Road to Queen's Road West, the driver of a truck jammed his foot futilely on the brakes but skidded right across the road where Lo Kai, 53, of Wo Hop Street, a hawker; Yu Yuen-chi, 5-year-old boy; Yu Wuen, his 8-year-old sister; and Yu Ki, a cousin of 14, were walking on the narrow sidewalk.

Only the last named boy survived the terrific impact, but he is not expected to live. He was rushed immediately to the Government Civil Hospital.

DANGEROUS CORNER
The intersection of Pokfulam Road and Queen's Road West has always been considered a dangerous one, and fatalities have frequently occurred at this spot. Pokfulam Road leads down to Queen's Road West, the main arterial road to the western district, and in order to turn to the west, drivers are forced to round a sharp angle.

The truck was heavily laden with old building materials and Choi Fui, the driver, misjudged his speed with the heavy weight of the burden on the truck, and his efforts to halt it only added to a hazardous skidding that crushed three innocent pedestrians on the wrong side of Queen's Road after making an unsuccessful turn.

To add to the irony of fate the wall close to where the victims were hit were plastered with "Safety First" signs, while a small "Safety First" sticker was gummed on to the windshield of the truck.

BOY STILL ALIVE

Although he was severely injured, the 14-year-old boy, Yu Ki, retained consciousness until he reached the hospital, and even conversed with the officers while waiting for the arrival of the ambulance, although it was quite noticeable that he was in intense pain.

Hospital authorities stated that the boy was in a most critical condition and the badly mutilated leg of the youngster might have to be amputated.

Choi Fui, the truck driver, has been detained by the police, and appeared to be overcome by the ghastly experience.

Weekly Toll Of
The Road

In the Colony of Hong Kong including the Island, Kowloon and the New Territories during the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday the 23rd inst., there were altogether 40 traffic accidents, as the result of which 20 persons were injured.

Of the persons injured, 16 were pedestrians who were either walking or running across the road or playing on the roadway and were struck by vehicles. One motor cycle driver and one cyclist were injured as the result of collisions between vehicles.

One cyclist and a lorry passenger were injured through falling from their vehicles whilst in motion.

Of the 40 accidents, 15 were collisions between vehicles; 18 were collisions between vehicles and pedestrians; and 7 accidents were due to other causes.

Government Vernacular
Middle School
ANNUAL PRIZE GIVING FUNCTION

The Government Vernacular Middle School held their annual prize-giving ceremony yesterday morning when Prof. Hsu Tishan, of The University, gave away the awards. Among those present at the function were Prof. L. Forster, Mr. Y. P. Law, Senior Inspector of Vernacular Schools, Messrs. Wan Yiu-sing, Liang Sai-wah, Fung Ping-fan, Ma Kiam and many others.

After the Headmaster had read the school report for the year, Prof. Hsu addressed the gathering in Chinese and then gave away the prizes.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

The headmaster's report was, in part:—Our school has entered upon the tenth year of its existence, and though still a young institution, it has met with the enthusiastic support of the community. Some boys who have completed the course here have entered the Hong Kong University, and others have either gone to the leading universities in China or taken up Government posts locally, and in their homeland.

We had two changes in our staff last year. Mr. Li Yau-sing, an Old Boy and an Arts graduate, was transferred here in January to take up the post vacated by the retirement of Mr. Au Tai-yuen. Mr. Cheung Kok-chor, our part-time Art master left us in June on account of ill health; in his stead we were fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Ho Chat-yuen, who had been for some time acting lecturer of Chinese Pictorial Art at the Lingnam University.

SPORTS

In sports, general interest was kept up throughout the year. Following our precedent, our Senior Volley Ball Team entered the Inter-school League and won six out of the twelve matches they played, though they failed to retain the position of runners-up which they held for several years.

FOUNDER CONGRATULATED

I take this opportunity of congratulating the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall on his appointment as a member of the Executive Council in August. Dr. Kotewall, besides his general support of education in the Colony, had played an important role in the founding of our institution. Our sympathy goes with him in his recent bereavement. I wish to thank Prof. Hsu Tishan for his coming here this morning to give away the certificates and prizes; the prize-donors for their generous encouragement; and all of you, ladies and gentlemen, for the honour of your presence.

Joseph Chamberlain
And The Empire

Sir Austen Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne spoke at a meeting held in St. Andrew's Hall, Glasgow, to celebrate the centenary of the birth of Joseph Chamberlain. The audience numbered 3,000.

Sir Robert Horne said that he was one of those who attended the meeting in the same hall in 1903 when Mr. Joseph Chamberlain inaugurated his campaign for Imperial preference and domestic tariffs. Joseph Chamberlain died without achieving his object, but he predicted that one of his sons would carry his policy to fruition; and in 1932 Mr. Neville Chamberlain introduced a Budget in which he embodied the principles of the tariff campaign. Would free-traders reverse that policy to-day? Sometimes they talked as if they might, but he predicted that no one in a position of responsibility would be willing to face the disaster which would follow. Without the protection of the tariff, our domestic markets would be overwhelmed by a cataract of surplus foreign products, with an effect upon employment in Great Britain which would destroy all the advances which we have achieved during the last four years.

Sir Austen Chamberlain was received with cheers when he rose to speak on the changes his father had wrought for the unity of the Empire. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, he said, changed the whole attitude of the Colonies towards the Motherland.

Turning to international affairs, he spoke of a "greatly-disturbed world" in which there had been a marked movement away from the free institutions enjoyed in England.

land. Seeing all the futility and misery of those great international rivalries and struggles, we were teaching the love of peace and freedom, toleration, and understanding to our children in the schools and our young men and women in the universities. It was the common theme of platform speeches, because we saw that in three at least of the great Powers of Europe youth was brought up in an entirely different doctrine.

Speaking of war, Sir Austen Chamberlain declared that it was not a question whether the peoples desired it, but whether the nations were willing to make that concession, one to another, without which peace between them could not continue. We all wanted peace, but would we all pay the price that peace exacted? They did not know when all that the British Empire stood for might be challenged by some foreign Power. "Play God (he added) that when that day comes it finds the Empire again united as it was in 1914."

COUNTERFEIT COINS
Sin Fan, 28, unemployed, was arrested on January 26, for having in his possession 3,310 counterfeit five-cent pieces and 153 counterfeit ten-cent pieces, resembling that of Hong Kong Currency.

Forty-eight hours remand was granted by Mr. E. Himsforth on Acting Sub-Inspector Kinnear's application when defendant was charged with the offence at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

Mild, aromatic, stimulating, refreshing. Yes, there are cocktails and Cocktails! Nevertheless they are practically made everywhere to the same recipe. The difference lies less in the mixing than in the gin. Try a bottle of Silver Top Dry Gin and mix a Martini or ask for ones at the bar for your drink mixed with Bols Gin (although your barman will probably be using it already). That will be the best proof! Bols Gin gives your cocktail a certain character which makes just the difference between the usual and perfection between a cocktail and a cocktail as it should be.

Prague Spring Fair

Elaborate Plans

Prague-Czechoslovakia lifted a good part of its import restrictions from January 1, 1937. More than two thirds of imported articles have regained free entry.

Czechoslovakia, the industrial country of Central Europe, intends to participate more fully than before in the international exchange of goods. Countries importing Czechoslovak goods may, therefore, expect a considerable increase in reciprocal trade with Czechoslovakia. This is sure to have a most favourable effect on the Prague International Fair, which has developed to one of the most important economic events in Europe during the last few years.

All the leading firms of the country will show their goods at the next Prague Fair. Some 3,000 exhibitors will display typical Czechoslovak articles such as glassware and china, toys, leather and metal goods, household and kitchen requisites, textiles, machines etc., at the next Spring Fair to be held from March 5 to 14, 1937.

HONG KONG, JANUARY 29, 1937.

Chinese Uncertainties

The aftermath of the revolt of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang in Sianfu last month is providing the Chinese Central Government with as pretty a problem as the revolt itself.

The threat to the stability of the State passed with the release of General Chiang Kai-shek, the Prime Minister and Generalissimo, but it now begins to look as though the Nanking Government may yet have to modify its policy very much on the lines laid down by the rebel Chang. Chang is still virtually the Government's prisoner. What the Government must now decide is whether it would not be better for the peace of China that he should be at liberty again and back in his old place at the head of his army in Shensi. For, in his enforced absence, the minor leaders in the province have quarrelled among themselves, and one of them, the former bandit Yang Hu-cheng, is believed to be flirting with the Communists in the West and plotting trouble for the Central Government. It is true that Yang has the support of only a fraction of the men whom Marshal Chang left behind him, but the majority of the troops in Sianfu, while still loyal to Chang, are also disaffected towards the Government.

If the worst came to the worst the Nanking authorities could quell the revolt without much difficulty, but they have every reason to wish to avoid the debilitating effects of civil war on the recently consolidated national unity. The reinstatement of Chang would provide a solution quite in keeping with Chinese ideas of the fitness of things.

Chang's reinstatement, however, might not be arranged without a quid pro quo, and that might very well be the modification of the policy of the Central Government, especially towards Japan, on the lines suggested by the "Young Marshal" while he held the Prime Minister's office in Sianfu.

Viewed in retrospect, the release of Chiang was not the complete victory for the Central Government which it first appeared to be, and there are indications that before he left Sianfu he agreed in principle to certain changes in policy, which, if carried out, would involve the reconstruction of the Government.

The central fact of the situation is that the Nanking Government, which is, in effect, Chiang's new Chinese Army, cannot fight on two fronts at once, and must temporise with either the Communists and disaffected war lords, neither of whom are as strong as they once were, or with the Japanese.

Hitherto the policy of Chiang, pursued with remarkable success, has been to fight a delaying diplomatic action with the Japanese while consolidating national unity. The danger of the situation in Shensi does not lie in itself alone so much as in the effect it may have on those parts of China, notably the South-West, where the war lords have only recently given up their personal ambitions. The loyalty of the South-Western leaders to Chiang stood the test of the original Sianfu revolt, but its permanence is problematical.

There is, however, one hopeful factor in the situation. Chiang

Annual Church
Meeting

Assistant Chaplin For
St. John's Cathedral

The Rev. H. W. Baines presided at the annual meeting of St. John's Cathedral which was held in the Cathedral Hall yesterday and attended by a large gathering.

In the course of his speech, the chairman gave a very comprehensive review of the year's work, and said that the number on the roll, 393, represented an increase of 15 on the previous year.

The Rev. Baines continued that during the year two plays were produced in the Cathedral, "The Garden" by Father Andrew, S.D.C., and "The Coming of Christ."

Referring to the staff, the Rev. Baines said that the Council authorised the appointment of an Assistant Chaplin after December 31, 1936 and that during his holiday the Bishop sought a man and that it was not his fault that none was at present forthcoming. He hoped, however, that by the beginning of next winter, reinforcement would be forthcoming.

In conclusion the speaker said that he had to perform that "momentous duty of congratulating Ceylon on their lamentable act of banditry in seizing the man whom we admire as Governor and whose presence with his lady in the Cathedral, if only for 18 months, has brought us close to them in affection and esteem." (Applause).

SECRETARY'S REPORT

After the Rev. Baines' speech, the acting Hon. Secretary, Mr. S. R. Kerr, presented his report which was, in part, as follows:—

During the Bishop's absence, from April to December, the work of the Cathedral and its parish (which embraces the whole of the Island) has been carried on unaided, except for a short spell of leave, by the Chaplain, Mr. Baines. "Unaided" is perhaps not entirely accurate nor entirely grateful for the Council acknowledge gratefully the assistance of Mr. Halward, during the Chaplain's leave, and of the other clergy who have occasionally officiated.

But the responsibility for the Cathedral, and all its activities, has remained with Mr. Baines; and it has been a heavy one.

More than ever, during these busy months, Mr. Baines's energy and leadership have been the keynote of the Cathedral's work; and your Council feel that they speak in your name, in putting on record their appreciation and gratitude.

THE BUDGET

Mr. A. Lindsay Lafford then gave his report of the reconstruction of the organ and Mr. A. Brearley, the Hon. Treasurer, reviewed the financial position, stating that there was a credit balance of $1,487.75. He then read the budget for 1937, as follows:—

The Budget for 1937 has been drawn up on much the same lines as last year. There is, however, an increase under the heading of Salaries of $1,100 which calls for explanation. As you are aware Mr. Baines is due for leave early in 1938 and it will be necessary to secure someone to relieve him. If it happens that a suitable man offers himself to the Bishop's commissaries in England for the appointment and is available in the autumn it might be advisable to engage him then in which case the Finance Committee consider the Budget should be adjusted to allow for three months salary less the amount which would be expended on casual assistance. There are reductions in two of the expenditure items, viz. Passage Reserve and Dean's House Account. We hope that the allocations made will be sufficient.

We have budgeted for the same income from the Chater Trust, but we have reduced the item "Fees from Official Services." This seems necessary as the transfer of the Gaol to Stanley may result in loss of income for the Cathedral and the fact that there is no English regiment in the Garrison may mean that the Cathedral will not be required for parade services, to the same extent as normally.

The amount required from the Godwill Offering Scheme to balance the Budget is $21,423, an increase over last year's Budget figure of $1,100 and about $2,000 more than was actually received in 1936.

It is, therefore, all the more essential that members of the new himself has given no indication of his future policy.

It would be out of character with his usual astuteness if he did not have some plan for outmanoeuvring the leadership of Shensi.

Chief Justice
Congratulates New Council Member

The Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almada, J.C., was congratulated by the Chief Justice, Sir Athol MacGregor, and Mr. H. G. Sheldon K.C., at the Supreme Court yesterday, on his appointment to the Legislative Council.

Mr. Sheldon said: On behalf of the Bar of this Colony, I wish to congratulate Mr. D'Almada on his recent appointment to the Legislative Council. My Lord, we are proud of him at the Bar and we hope he will be successful in his new duties. From his public work, which he has already unobtrusively performed, his appointment will undoubtedly prove a wise choice.

His Lordship: I think it is extremely generous of you, Mr. Sheldon, to give me this opportunity to say something about Mr. D'Almada's appointment, and, if I may, I should like to enlarge the scope of what you have said because Mr. D'Almada may rest assured that not only does he carry with him the good wishes of the whole Bar, but I know that he carries also the good wishes of the other branch of the profession and of the Bench. I have only one more thing to say and that is in regard to what you, Mr. Sheldon, have said, that you hope Mr. D'Almada will be a success in public affairs. I will go a great deal further than that—we all are confident that he will be successful, and it will do him no harm to know that in his new duties he carries with him the good wishes of everyone.

Mr. D'Almada: This has taken me completely by surprise. Had it been in other proceedings I would have objected most strenuously. (Laughter). This renders it all the more gratifying and I thank your Lordship and my learned friend. As Mr. Sheldon has said, I hope indeed that I shall be a worthy successor to Mr. Braga in the appointment.

ST ANDREW'S

Members of the St. Andrew's Club held a most successful "Social Night" at the Church Hall where they entertained the members and friends of the Kowloon Union Church Young People's Society last night.

The function was attended by about 60 persons who enjoyed a pleasant evening, indulging in games and dancing till a late hour.

It was in the nature of a return for the kind invitation to the Xmas Party at which the members of the St. Andrew's Club were entertained by the Society.

Council, and especially those on the Finance Committee, should regard themselves as canvassers for the Godwill Fund and should spare no effort in obtaining new subscribers to the Cathedral.

SHANGHAI WELCOMES MANUEL QUEZON

To Discuss Defence Question At Washington

GUEST AT MAYOR'S BANQUET

Shanghai, January 28.
A warm welcome was accorded Senator Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippines, when he disembarked this afternoon from the Empress of Canada.

Interviewed by Reuters, the President said: "The purpose of my visit to Washington is to discuss with the War and State Departments the questions of defence and economics of mutual interest to our countries."

As Senator Quezon and his party were descending the gang plank, a Filipino band on the wharf played the "Star Spangled Banner."

A host of Chinese notables greeted him, including the Mayor of Greater Shanghai, Mr. Wu Teh-chen, and United States consular officials.

Senator Quezon was the guest of honour at the U.S. Consul-General's reception this afternoon. He will be entertained by Mayor Wu Teh-chen this evening at a banquet at which many prominent people will be present.—

AIR PARITY WITH GERMANY

British Shortcomings Criticised

MINISTER OUTLINES PROGRESS

London, Jan. 27.
Progress of the air defence programme in Great Britain was outlined by Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence, when replying to criticism of a Conservative member in the House of Commons to-day. It had been alleged that the Royal Air Force was inadequate. Sir Thomas showed how its strength was increasing.

At present, he said, Britain possessed 87 squadrons, 13 of which were on a one flight basis. He explained that new squadrons were formed by "hiving off" a flight and gradually adding men and aircraft to it. He anticipated that 100 squadrons would have been formed by the end of March, 1937, of which 22 would be one flight units.

If expectations were fulfilled the remaining 24 squadrons of the programme, or at least 20, would have been formed by July, Sir Thomas stated. The production graph line was slowly rising, and the line of ascent would become steeper as the months passed.

MANY REASONS

He explained that the reasons for delay in expanding the Air Force at home were several, the chief being the necessity for policing the Mediterranean Sea.

They did not propose to use foreign-built ships, he went on, owing to the delay in delivery and the possible difficulties to be encountered in their equipment, particularly in war time. Foreign machine tools were being used to a considerable extent but it was hoped that deliveries would be completed from British factories by the end of the year. Shadow factories, Sir Thomas went on, would begin production in the autumn and engine production in January next.

THE BEST POSSIBLE

Great Britain's anti-aircraft defence system was the best the Government experts could devise, and it was believed it could prevent air attacks ever reaching their objectives, Sir Thomas declared.

Then, switching from the subject of defence weapons, Sir Thomas paid a tribute to the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, for his resourcefulness and undaunted courage in carrying out the policy of the Government in the face of overwhelming difficulties. Mr. Eden's declaration of political appeasement and economic co-operation alone should bring lasting peace, and the Government hoped that a general settlement would soon come.

Meanwhile, they would continue to arm for the defence of the realm with all the vast resources that "this undefeated country possesses." The benches cheered.

UGAKI CABINET EFFORTS

Army Leaders Still In Opposition

Shanghai, Jan. 28.

A report issued yesterday to the effect that the Japanese Army and Navy nominated ministers for Ugaki's Cabinet and that the new Premier had offered the finance portfolio to Chuki Yuki, who was described as the president of the Industrial Bank of Japan, emanated from Domei, the official news agency.

Enquiries by Reuters Tokyo correspondent showed the report to be totally incorrect. No ministers have yet been nominated by the Army or Navy.

Army leaders to-day reiterated their opposition to Ugaki's efforts to form a Cabinet.—

BRITISH LOAN TO FRANCE

Definite Conclusion To Negotiations

Paris, Jan. 28.
Mystery still surrounds the negotiations for the loan of British business circles to France. The sum in question has, during the last ten days variously been put at 50 to 200 million pounds.

The London correspondent of the "Petit Parisien," a paper which is in close touch with the Quai d'Orsay, states that the negotiations have at last reached a definite conclusion, although the terms of the agreement will not be made known till a later date, and that the French Government would receive a much larger credit than the above-mentioned 50 million pounds.

On the other hand the "Figaro" states that the agreement will be signed on Thursday, and that it will be a short-term loan, repayable in 1937.—

CREDIT FOR POLISH ARMAMENTS

Warsaw, Jan. 28.

An extraordinary credit, amounting to one milliard zloty has been voted for by the Polish Parliament in the first reading, the credit to be spent on armaments. The expenditure of this amount is to be spread over four years, 250 million zloty being spent every year.—

said he understood the programme of the Government aimed at 124 squadrons by March 31. Deducting 22 incomplete squadrons from the 100 mentioned by Sir Thomas Inskip, Britain could only expect to have 78 complete squadrons by March 31.

"We shall not have parity with Germany in 1937," said Mr. Churchill. He doubted strongly if Britain could achieve that parity in 1938.

The Germans, he said, were believed to possess at least 150 squadrons, each of 12 fighting machines. If the Luftwaffe planes were added, the country could muster 2,000 aircraft in an emergency.—

RADEK ACCUSES OTHER POWERS

Russo-Japanese War Prediction

Moscow, Jan. 27.

The prediction that a Russo-Japanese war is certain this year was made by Karl Radek, Russian writer and politician, when giving evidence at the mass trial of alleged adherents to the cause of Trotsky and counter-revolution, at which he stands accused.

He said he had received a message from the former Bolshevik president, Leon Trotsky, now a political fugitive abroad, delivered through Platsky, asserting that a deal had been carried through with Germany in connection with the plan for hostilities. Trotsky predicted a war, some time in 1937.

Radek said that Platsky, who was one of Trotsky's agents, had told him that Germany needed a year for diplomatic preparation for war. Her military preparations were already complete. But Germany wanted to be certain of Great Britain's neutrality in any clash that might occur.

Germany, said Radek, demanded complete freedom of operation in the Danube and Balkan country.

Kynazeff, another of the accused, said in evidence on this point, that the Japanese held similar views to those of Germany. He supported Radek's evidence.

No less than 1,500 train-wrecking attempts occurred in Russia in 1934 and 2,000 more in 1935, according to the admission of the former manager of the South Ural Railway, a man named Kynazeff. In one accident 63 persons were killed and 164 injured.

Kynazeff asserted that he was blackmailed into delivering mobilisation plans to the Japanese by an agent who threatened to expose his pro-Trotsky activities.

The prisoner added that the Japanese agent insisted that troop trains should be filled with deadly bacteria in time of war and that food trains should be burned.—

"WORTHY OFFSPRING"

Moscow, Jan. 27.

Although no official announcement has been made regarding the arrest of Trotsky's son, a resolution passed by the workers at the Krasnoyarsk factory, where Sergel worked as an engineer, is regarded as a substantial confirmation. The resolution says:—"Worthy offspring of his father, who has become a Fascist hireling, Sergel endeavours to kill the last group of workers with poisonous gases. We request the Supreme Court to destroy all these Trotsky vipers."

"MALICIOUS FABRICATIONS"

Mexico City, Jan. 27.

"An act of personal vengeance" was how M. Leon Trotsky described the reported arrest of his son Sergel in Russia on a charge of attempting to poison workers in the Krasnoyarsk plants.

Trotsky said his son would probably suffer unbearable tortures. "This is an act in keeping with Stalin's character," he added. "He is already responsible for the deaths of my two daughters."

In a statement to the press, Trotsky described the confession at the Moscow trial as "malicious fabrications" divorced from time and space.—
Reuters.

WOMEN ARRESTED.

Warsaw, Jan. 28.

Several relatives of Trotsky have been arrested in Russia, reports the Polish news agency. Among them is a son and two daughters of Trotsky. The two women are accused of organising to overthrow Stalin, and one of them who had lived in Siberia is furthermore accused of inciting miners there to sabotage.

Trotsky's sister was married to Kameneff, who was sentenced to death and shot at the last Trotsky trial.—
Transoceanic News Service.

MR. DUFF COOPER'S COMMENT

London, Jan. 28.

Commenting on the notorious "Trotsky Trial" in Moscow in a speech here on Wednesday, the British Secretary of War, Mr. Duff Cooper, said:

"The men now on trial played a leading part in the Bolshevik revolution. Every day these men, over whom the shadow of death hangs, are making confessions of crimes which would set against not only the inmates of our prisons but also the inmates of our insane asylums. A very prominent member of the Communist Party, who was for many years in charge of an important part of the Siberian Railway confessed to having attempted 3,500 train wrecks whilst in office. Can one believe these things at all? Can we imagine

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS SURPRISE

Jack Crawford Beaten By Youngster

TITLE HOLDER ELIMINATED

Sydney, January 28.
A first class surprise was caused to-day in the Australian tennis championships by the defeat of Jack Crawford, Australia's leading tennis player and hero of many Davis Cup encounters, at the hands of a youngster.

Adrian Quist, holder of the singles title, was also eliminated in the quarter-finals by a newcomer, but his conqueror failed in the semi-final stage.

In the semi-finals, John Bromwich, an ambidextrous and unorthodox youngster, who is a Davis Cup probable, beat Jack Crawford 6-1, 7-9, 6-4, 8-6. Crawford's brilliance was unavailing against Bromwich's steadiness which lasted two and a half hours.

Vivian McGrath, in the other semi-final, beat Hopman 6-4, 6-1, 7-5. Hopman had beaten Adrian Quist, the title holder, by scores of 11-9, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3 in the quarter-final.—

ONE MILLION HOMELESS

American Flood Victims

New York, Jan. 28.

The flood waters are beginning to fall at Louisville and Kentucky for the first time for a week, as the bulk of the river sweeps toward the Mississippi Valley, where the War Department has completed preparations to evacuate half a million inhabitants of the valley at a moment's notice, if necessary.

According to the latest estimates, there are nearly a million people homeless and the deaths approach five hundred, with damage at over four hundred million dollars.

From the waters at Louisville, 120 bodies have been recovered.—
Reuters.

WHOLESALE EVACUATION

Washington, Jan. 27.

Determined to prevent a repetition of the havoc of the Ohio floods, President Roosevelt has ordered the Army High Command to draw up an unprecedented plan for the wholesale evacuation of a hundred square miles in the Mississippi Valley, which comprises some of the world's richest cotton land.

A fleet of 35,000 lorries will be mobilised for the removal of 500,000 people who are anxiously watching Ohio's flood waters swell the Mississippi.

Whilst engineers hope that general evacuation will be unnecessary, they predict that the levees will be unable to hold out when the river reaches its peak, which is expected in about a week's time.—

AMBASSADOR WORRIED

London, Jan. 27.

The United States Ambassador, Mr. Robert Bingham, has called hurriedly from London for his home town, Louisville, which has suffered severely from the floods. The death-roll is reported to total two hundred.

Mr. Bingham will fly from New York to Louisville, where his wife, son and several grand-children are living.—

TWO THORNY DISPUTES

League Happy At Settlement

Geneva, Jan. 27.

The League of Nations Council is in a happy mood, having settled two thorny conflicts.

The Alexandretta dispute was finally disposed of by an agreement to form a commission to prepare a definite text of the Statute of Sanjak.

Agreement was also reached on all questions affecting Danzig.—
Reuters's Bulletin Service.

DANZIG PROBLEM

Geneva, Jan. 27.

The Danzig question was definitely settled by the League Council in a public session to-day by the acceptance of the report of the Committee of Three.

In a preceding secret session it had been decided that the new High Commissioner of the League of Nations for the Danzig Free State should be appointed by the President of the Council, the Committee of Three and the Polish Foreign Minister. It is considered practically certain in League circles that the former Chief of the Dutch Admiralty, de Graaf, will be elected for the post.

The report, which was read by Mr. Anthony Eden, after defining the status of the Free City, expressed gratification at the compromise reached, owing to the conciliatory spirit of the two parties concerned.

The most important part is concerned with the change of modus in the procedure. While formerly it was the task of the League of Nations to deal with disputes by placing them on the agenda, this will in future be the task of the Committee of Three. After reading the report, Mr. Eden thanked the Polish Foreign Minister for his successful attempts at settling the dispute. The British Foreign Secretary then once more emphasised the necessity of co-operating with the Danzig Government. The President of the Danzig Senate, Grelser, paid tribute to the fairness and tact displayed by Col. Beck, the Polish Foreign Minister.—
Transoceanic News Service.

SANJAK SETTLEMENT

Geneva, Jan. 27.

The report submitted to the League Council to-day by the Rapporteur on the Sanjak question, the Swedish Foreign Minister Sandier, was approved by the League Council.

The Turkish Foreign Minister, Ruzhdi Aras, expressed gratification that a settlement had been reached, but emphasised that everything would depend upon the manner in which the agreement would be put into effect.

After brief addresses by Mr. Anthony Eden, M. Delbos, M. Antonescu and M. Litvinoff, the chairman of the Council, Dr. Wellington Koo, thanked the Swedish Foreign Minister for his successful intervention as mediator.—
Transoceanic News Service.

ARAB DISSATISFACTION

Jerusalem, Jan. 27.

The dissatisfaction at the League's settlement of the Sanjak question is rapidly increasing among the Arab population of Palestine and Syria, according to reports here, which state that a protest demonstration was held at Aleppo, Damascus, Alexandretta and Antioch to-day, followed by the closing of all Arab-owned shops in these towns.—

SUGAR AGREEMENT SOUGHT

Geneva, Jan. 27.

An international conference under the auspices of the League of Nations will be convened in London next April in order to consider the possibility of an agreement in regard to the production and marketing of sugar.—

Increased Wages For Workers

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 28.

The strike at the Libby, Owens and Ford glass factory has ended with an increase of wages, and recognition of the Federation of Glass Workers follows the settlement of the strike in the Pittsburgh glass works.

These together manufacture 80 per cent. of the automobile industry's glass and 70 per cent. of the nation's window glass.—

GENERAL MOTORS NOT RESPONSIBLE

Breakdown In Peace Negotiations

Washington, Jan. 27.

In the course of a statement addressed jointly to the public and loyal workers, Mr. A. P. Sloan, President of General Motors Corporation, denied that the Corporation is responsible for the breakdown in the peace negotiations.

Mr. Sloan stated that over a hundred thousand workers desired to return to work.

A message from Detroit states that about forty thousand men have resumed work in the General Motors Corporation plants, which have been closed down owing to a shortage of materials, and not by action of the strikers.—

CRISIS BREWS IN BELGIUM

Minister Of Health Resigns

Brussels, Jan. 27.

A political crisis has developed in Belgium, owing to the resignation of the powerful Socialist leader, M. Emile Vandervelde, Minister of Health, but the life of the Administration is not threatened at present. None of the other Ministers seem inclined to follow him.

The situation is dangerous, however. M. Vandervelde is authorised by the executive of the Belgian Labour Party and his resignation follows differences between him and other members of the Government.

His quarrel was particularly severe with M. Paul Spaak, Minister for Foreign Affairs, with respect to the Spanish situation. He was aggravated by the particularly stern attitude adopted by the Government with respect to the murder of the Belgian diplomat, Baron de Borchgrave, in Madrid.

The resignation of M. Vandervelde may mean the end of the coalition Government of Roman Catholics, Socialists and Liberals.

None of the other Labour Ministers, however, seem inclined to follow the leader's example and the life of the Government is not menaced at present.—
Reuters.

Madrid Withstands Insurgent Attacks

Madrid, Jan. 28.

Despite heavy rain and gales hampering military operations, General Franco has been making two attempts to cut Madrid's communications.

The Government claims that both efforts have been unsuccessful. A communique states that the insurgents are displaying great activity northward of the capital, but Government artillery prevented numerous enemy attempts at concentration.

On the southern front the Government successfully checked the attacks of the insurgents' motorised forces.

The Government also claims a "brilliant advance" on the Quantas and Alcaudete sectors where they have captured several villages.—

Sport Items From Here And There

(BY BEN MADIGAN)

As the title of this article suggests, it deals with "small items" of interest to the sporting community and it is my intention to include in it items dealing with every form of sport. It will run as a regular Friday feature in the "Daily Press."

RIFLES LOOK GOOD

No drastic changes took place in the Football League Table as a result of last Saturday's matches. Rifles, the leaders, pleased their backers by further enhancing their Championship prospects at the expense of Navy, and now hold an inspiring lead of three points. Fusiliers came next. The Welsh side received a set-back on Wednesday last when Seaforts forced them to concede a point. They encounter Athletic tomorrow and will find the much improved Chinese team hard to beat. A division of points would not surprise me.

REVIEW OF WEEK-END FIXTURES

Club entertain the leaders tomorrow and will be fielding their strongest team, with the exception of Moore, who is a doubtful starter. This should prove a close struggle and with the home advantage, Club may force Rifles to share the points. Fusiliers encounter Athletic at Kowloon after dropping a point to Seaforts in their mid-week encounter. Athletic may force the Welsh boys to a division of spoils. Eastern will have the attractive but inconsistent South China "A" as visitors at Causeway Bay. I fully expect South China to atone for last week's setback by trouncing the mediocre Eastern team. South China "B" are expected to better their position at the expense of Navy at Caroline Hill. These are the important fixtures, but the remainder do not involve so much at stake.

FUTURE RUGBY STAR

One of the most improved Rugby players it has been my lot to see this season is Butcher who plays for the Club. His displays all through the season have been brilliant and consistent. Representative honours are bound to come Butcher's way in the near future, and it is gratifying to know that this opinion is shared by a well-known ex-Rugby star.

WAKE UP, SOUTH CHINA "A"

Regarding South China "A's" disappointing display last weekend, the critics have declared that staleness has crept into the side and they are beginning to feel the strain of a hard season. After witnessing their recent league games, I am inclined to disagree with the critics as regards an evidence of staleness. I noticed that some of the players were much too casual in their work.

(9) 4.30 P.M.—The Valley Stakes: Winner $1,000, Second $300, Third $200. For China Ponies, Subscription Griffins of this club of this meeting. Weight for inches as per scale. Entrance $10. (6 Furlongs).

(10) 5 P.M.—The Old Course Handicap: Winner $800, Second $250, Third $150. For China Ponies that have started in at least five extra meetings of this club during 1936. Ponies classified "A," "B," and "C" classes as at December 31, 1936, barred. Jockey Allowance. Entrance $10. (1 1/2 Miles).

Burgomaster 140, Cavalier 141, Copper Idol 140, Don 140, Donovan and more or less treated the earnest opposition with an air of apparent ease. This, in my opinion, has been their downfall on the many occasions they have disappointed their followers when encountering inferior opposition. Much as I admire South China "A," and knowing they have no superiors, locally, in the art of football, until I see a real enthusiastic spirit take the place of this lackadaisical "air," I cannot regard South China "A" as probable champions.

ATHLETIC CONTINUE REVIVAL

Athletic have justified my opinion of them as being the most improved side in Division I. Their latest victims were the energetic Kowloon (C) side. Their defence has improved beyond recognition and the front line has taken a new lease of life. In Lee Tak-kee they have a great "general" who never admits defeat until the final whistle. Ng Tak-wing, at centre half, is serving up some first class displays, and more than a big share of their revival can be traced to his brilliant constructive work. Athletic will certainly humiliate some of the leading teams before the season closes.

HAS NO SUPERIOR

I see Lai Shui-wing of China "A" will have the opportunity in Sunday's Trial game, of verifying my opinion of him—the cleverest inside forward in local soccer. Wilson is undoubtedly a hard working forward, but when it comes to the finer points of the game, Lai Shui-wing overshadows him. However, I don't expect Lai Shui-wing will find a place in the team, but the fact remains, he is still the only inside forward in local football who would command attention from the shrewd cross channel scouts.

SELECTORS' WING HALF WORRY

The Interport Selectors are still dissatisfied as regards their final choice as to who will compose the Interport XI on February 11, last Sunday's Governor's Cup game being insufficient to satisfy their minds. The result is that we will again see the cream of local talent perform in a final trial match on the Club ground on Sunday. The wing half problem is the selectors' chief anxiety, and certainly last week's game did not tend to ease their minds. The scarcity of good wing-halves is astonishing, while the competition for other positions produces keen rivalry. However, when the committee finally get down to their wing half decision I expect Leung Wing-chai and Wride will be the means of finally solving the solution.

LEE WAI-TUNG

As a result of last Sunday's display, Lee Wai-tung has definitely proved to the critics that he has no superior as a forward in local football. The cleverness of his scheming, coupled with his sharp shooting abilities, place him in a class by himself. It does cast a reflection on the younger section, when a player of Lee's age, who actually forsook the game for a long period, can come back with a flourish—and literally walk into the Interport eleven!

GOSANO-STEVENS PARTNERSHIP

Why the Interport Selectors have parted the Gosano-Stevens partnership, after last week's brilliant performance, puzzles the most ardent football enthusiasts. This was, in my opinion, one department of the Interport team that was more or less a foregone conclusion, after Sunday's game. For Sunday's Trial, however, the selectors have parted this pair and Stevens will partner his club-mate, Pickering, with Gosano figuring alongside Lee Tin-sang in the opposite side.

A PROPHECY

I was very much struck by the display of Tam Kwam-kon, the Athletic's new keeper, from Canton, in the Governor's Cup game—some of his saves from Knox reminding one of Harry Hibbs at his best. I like his natural style, which denotes a touch of class. He certainly proved an able substitute for Pat Ka-ping and I prophesy he will be the best goalkeeper in local soccer this time next year.

School Cricket

D.B.S. WIN AGAIN

In the return match between Central British School and the Diocesan Boys' School, the latter were again successful.

The C.B.S. were dismissed for 42, and the D.B.S. hit up the necessary runs for the loss of one wicket.

C.B.S. 42 (T. Suter 16, E. Stone 13; Cray 5 for 23, Fisher 2 for 5, White 3 for 7).

D.B.S. 155 (F. Lay 62 retired; D. Cray 26 retired, W. Lau 22, Hoegood 4 for 63, Street 3 for 49).

The moderate display of Beltrao in Sunday's Interport Football Trial match gave rise to the claims of Campbell as a reasonable contestant for the centre half berth. Beltrao was certainly off colour and could not cope with the illustrious Lee Wai-tung. The critics, however, have regarded him as an Interport certainty but I cannot say much in his favour on recent form. Campbell, in my opinion, would fit into the side more readily than the Recrolo player, being an adept at drawing the opposing vanguard out of position.

SO FEW DISEASES CAN REALLY BE CURED

Doctors' Strike Wouldn't Alter Death Rate

"So few are the diseases we can really cure that one is tempted to believe that if all doctors went on strike the effect on the death rate would be unappreciable."

Thus stated Dr. Robert Hutchison, consulting physician to London Hospital and to the Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond Street, London, in his Dr. Isaac Gilchrist Lecture at Aberdeen University on "The Progress and Present Aspect of Medical Science."

"That is not to say, of course," he continued, "that doctors are of no use, but only that they are of use in a different way from what the public imagines."

A MENTAL "POULTICE"

"In most cases of illness the doctor is really a mental poultice. He is a source of comfort, confidence, and consolation to the patient and his friends, but if he is honest with himself he will admit that the number of patients who would have died but for his attendance is lamentably small."

"As to the future," Dr. Hutchison said, "prophecy is idle that great advances will be made, we may feel tolerably sure, although the popular opinion that for every disease there is a cure if only we could find it is certainly a delusion."

"Whence our help will come, however, it is impossible to say. It may quite well be from outside medicine and its ancillary sciences."

Referring to maternal mortality, Dr. Hutchison, according to the report published in the "British Medical Journal," claims that it is well within the power of preventive medicine "to reduce these deaths in this country by at least a quarter."

First-Birth Problems

They were up against certain adverse and partly unescapable circumstances, these including the increasing relative number of first births and the various devices to produce motherhood without tears. Regarding the reorientation of medical theory, Dr. Hutchison discussed constitutional medicine, with its three aspects of anatomy, physiology, and psychology.

"We must remember," he continued, "the advice, 'Know thyself.' In other words, everyone must learn to manage his own machine so as to keep it in running order, and in helping him to do this there should be no one so useful as the family doctor, who, in the old phrase, knows the patient's constitution."

"It is the essence, too, of the constitutional doctrine that it recognises that health is not a single static thing, but has many degrees, and varies even from hour to hour."

Royal Visits To Scotland OTHER TOURS CONTEMPLATED

Scotland may expect visits from the royal dukes and duchesses this year. The royal engagements, rearranged because of the accession of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the Throne, are now being planned.

The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester will be seen much more often in public this year, and the Duke will not continue his military studies at the Staff College, Camberley, for the present, so that he can be free to take on many of the engagements which would have fallen to his brother.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent, too, will have a busier year than ever.

Whether the King and Queen will make an official visit to Edinburgh, taking up residence at Holyrood House, is one of the many problems at present under discussion.

Another matter which complicates the arrangement of the royal programmes for this year is the question of the official announcement of the accession of King George VI. to the crowned heads of other States.

It is possible that the King will follow precedent and, depute one of his brothers to make a series of visits to the capitals of Europe to announce his reign, but this is a matter dependent on the general state of foreign affairs.

DUKE OF WINDSOR'S BODYGUARD

Home For A Holiday

The Duke of Windsor has sent his personal detective—Chief Inspector David Storer, of Scotland Yard—back to England for a month's holiday.

Storer arrived on January 12. He was once a schoolmaster in Glasgow, and he is spending the holiday in that city.

Afterwards he will return to London to see the Commissioner of Police, and it will then be decided for what period Scotland Yard is to continue to provide a bodyguard for the Duke. It is likely to do so for at least another year.

Chief Inspector Storer has guarded the Duke as Prince of Wales, as King, and as ex-King, accompanying him on his missions to Argentina and elsewhere.

Inspector Evans, who accompanied Mrs. Simpson to Cannes, has also returned to London to resume normal duty.

ward VIII told the Houses of Parliament he might hold, are also being taken into consideration by those responsible for Court arrangements.

Meanwhile, detailed plans for the actual Courts of Coronation year are being made by the Lord Chamberlain and his officers, and the Earl Marshal is busy every day with arrangements for the Coronation itself.

Slow Motion Films Of Flight

Slow motion films of the humming bird in flight, and of the high speed flow of air over an aeroplane wing in one of the wind tunnels at Farnborough were shown in public for the first time in England on January 12, at the annual conversations of the Royal Aeronautical Society, held at the Science Museum, South Kensington. Nearly 400 members and guests attended. They were received by the president, Mr. H. E. Wimperis, and Mrs. Wimperis.

Several other examples of bird flight were included in the programme and the hovering flight of the humming bird made a remarkable contrast, for example, to the leisurely motion of gulls' wings, flexing to an extraordinary extent towards the completion of the downward stroke, and to the vast extent of the beat of pigeons' wings, meeting above and below the body, while the bird climbed after the take-off. The humming bird, poised for its sip of honey, was seen to have its body practically vertical and to derive lift from wings moving at least 50 times a second by feathering as well as beating them. The motion appeared to be much like that that used by a swimmer in floating.

FAST PHOTOGRAPHY

Equally fast photography was employed to show the flow of air at high speed over and around an aeroplane wing. This served as an excellent introduction to the pictures of the work done at the Royal Aircraft Establishment at Farnborough. After showing the testing of model seaplane hulls in the seaplane hulls in the seaplane tank and experiments on the spinning of model aircraft in the vertical tunnel, a special piece of film reproducing work in the big 24ft. tunnel was presented. This enabled the visitor, with the help of a commentary by Mr. R. P. Alston, to appreciate the way in which the great stream of air is introduced by a fan running so true that it has no more than half an inch of clearance; how by means of huge vanes the swirl is taken out of the air stream, and how by deflecting the air is persuaded to pass round the corners of the circuit without becoming turbulent.

SIR ARTHUR JOHNS

Famous Designer Dead

Sir Arthur William Johns, well known as the designer of many of our very latest warships, died on January 13, at Bedford Hill, S.W., at the age of 63.

Until last July he was Director of Naval Construction at the Admiralty, and had had a remarkable career. He was created K.C.B. in 1933 for his services as a naval architect.

He went to Devonport Dockyard at the age of 14 as an apprentice shipwright. After being an apprentice for four years he gained an Admiralty scholarship and passed into the Royal Naval Engineering College at Keyham. An appointment at the Admiralty followed, and soon afterwards he became Instructor in Naval Architecture at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.

Then, returning to the Admiralty in 1901 he was employed on the designs for the King Edward VII class of battleship and the Kent class of cruisers.

SUBMARINE DESIGN

In 1912 he was placed in charge of submarine design and construction, on which he was employed for the greater part of the war. An incidental effort was to control the design and construction of our earliest airships. Through his technical knowledge he was a member of the Court of Inquiry which inquired into the loss of R38 in 1921.

But his great task came when, appointed Director of Naval Construction in 1930 in succession to Sir William J. Berry, he had to face the tremendous complexities involved in entirely new conditions.

In the six years that followed he had to meet not only the modern warship's need of protection from the air but comply with treaty requirements. Ships now being built to meet the necessities of expansion bear strong traces of his influence, but his real genius lay in the design of submarines. In that department he gained in expert quarters the reputation of being the greatest submarine designer in the world.

An
writes:—

"I find that 'Bisurated' Magnesia taken after most of my meals is the only thing that keeps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."
(Signed) Dr. H. G. M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of 'Bisurated' Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why 'Bisurated' Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralizes excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or more effective. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking 'Bisurated' Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

HOW TO AVOID A SLUMP

It is clear that, by painful degrees we have climbed out of the slump. It is also clear that we are well advanced on the upward slopes of prosperity—I will not say "of the boom," for "boom" is an opprobrious term, and what we are enjoying is desirable, writes a Home correspondent. But many are already preoccupied with what is to come. It is widely agreed that it is more important to avoid a descent into another slump than to stimulate a still greater activity than we have. This means that all of us—politicians, bankers, industrialists, and economists—are faced with a scientific problem which we have never tried to solve before.

I emphasize that point. Not only have we never solved it, we have never tried to. Not once. The booms and slumps of the past have been neither courted nor contrived against. The action of Central Banks has been hitherto an almost automatic response to the unforeseen and undesigned impact of outside events. But this time it is different. We have entirely freed ourselves—this applies to every party and every quarter—from the philosophy of the 'laissez-faire' state. We have new means at our disposal which we know more. But chiefly it is a general conviction that the stability of our institutions absolutely requires a resolute attempt to apply what perhaps we know to preventing the recurrence of another steep descent. I should like to try, therefore, to reduce a complicated problem to its essential elements.

The Distressed Areas

It is natural to interject that it is premature to abate our efforts to increase employment so long as the figures of unemployment remain so large. In a sense this must be true. But I believe that we are, approaching, or have reached, the point where there is not much advantage in applying a further general stimulus at the centre. So long as surplus resources were widely diffused between industries and localities, it was no great matter at what point in the economic structure the impulse of an increased demand was applied. But the evidence grows that for several reasons into which there is no space to enter here—the economic structure is unfortunately rigid, and that (for example) building activity in the home counties is less effective than one might have hoped in decreasing unemployment in the distressed areas. It follows that the later stages of recovery require a different technique. To remedy the condition of the distressed areas, "ad hoc" measures are necessary. The narrow marchers were, so to speak, theoretically correct. The Government have been wrong in their reluctance to accept the strenuous "ad hoc" measures recommended by those in close touch with the problem. Nevertheless, a change of policy in the right direction seems to be imminent. We are in more need to-day of a rightly distributed demand than of a greater aggregate demand; and the Treasury would be entitled to economize elsewhere to compensate for the cost of special assistance to the distressed areas. If our responsibility in this direction could be thus disposed of we could concentrate with a clear mind on our central problem of how to maintain a fairly steady level of sustained prosperity.

Why is it that good times have been so intermittent? The explanation is not difficult. The public, especially when they are prosperous, do not spend the whole of their incomes on current consumption. It follows that the productive activities, from which their incomes are derived, must not be devoted to preparing for consumption in any greater proportion than that in which the con-

ANGLO-AMERICAN TRADE

Washington, Jan. 27.
The British Embassy, in a statement, says further discussion is necessary before it can be determined whether a firm basis exists on which detailed negotiations are possible for a reciprocal Anglo-American trade agreement. The statement adds that Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, has exchanged views on various topics with President Roosevelt and Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State.

responding incomes will be spent on consumption; since, if they are, the resulting goods cannot be sold at a profit and production will have to be curtailed. If when incomes are at a given level the public consume, let us say, nine-tenths of their incomes, the productive efforts devoted to consumption goods cannot be more than nine times the efforts devoted to investment. If the results are to be sold without loss. Thus it is an indispensable condition of a stable increase in incomes that the production of investment goods (which must be interpreted in a wide sense so as to include working capital; and also relief works and armaments if they are paid for by borrowing) should advance proportionately. Otherwise the proportion of income spent on consumption will be less than the proportion of income earned by producing consumption goods, which means that the receipts of the producers of consumption goods will be less than their costs, so that business losses and a curtailment of output will ensue.

Krupps' £1,200,000 Profit

Krupps, of Essen, the great coal, iron and steel, and armaments firm, is paying a dividend of 4 per cent. (the first dividend since 1917) for the year 1935-36. All the share capital is held by the family of Krupp von Bohlen.

The annual report states that the profits amounted to 14,400,000m. (about £1,200,000), equivalent to 9 per cent on the share capital, compared with 9,700,000m. in the previous year. In most branches of the firm's business production continued to increase, although at a slower pace than in 1934-35. The demand of the building, agricultural, and machine industries, of shipbuilding, motor, and aircraft industries, and the

AIRPLANE
SAFETY
DEVICEIndian Inventor
Explains

The only Indian inventor to study aerodynamics, a young man of 29, has perfected and patented an invention which may contribute enormously to the safety of flying by largely eliminating stalling and permitting airplanes to land at reduced speeds.

The inventor is Mr. Phiroze P. Nazir, who is working at the Queen Mary College under Dr. N. A. Y. Piercy. The device which he has invented is a combination of a cut-slot and a landing-flap in the after part of the wing of an airplane some distance from the trailing edge.

It has been tested in an air tunnel at the college, and the results have been startling.

Mr. Nazir said that the idea of this device came to him in 1929 when he was working with an automobile company in Bombay.

PILOT'S LICENCE

Born in Bombay, he is a Parsee, and in his early years he suffered considerable hardship and poverty. He dreamed of being a designer of airplanes and an inventor. With his idea in mind he came over to this country six years ago and worked in airplanes at Brooklands. He obtained his pilot's licence.

He started to work out his invention, but could at first obtain no encouragement to proceed with it. It was only when the Indian Government heard of it and obtained expert reports that he was helped by the Indian Government's Aeronautical Research Scholarship, which he has held for three years.

This enabled him to continue to develop his invention at the Queen Mary College. Now that it is completed in model form the Indian Government have assisted him to take out patents for it all over the world.

The importance of the invention lies in the fact that it will enable airplanes to land and take off with a great deal more safety and will dispense entirely with the present device of ailerons.

A SECRET

He kept his invention a complete secret from everybody except his Government and a few technical friends until a fortnight ago, when he began to try to get commercial assistance to experiment with it on a bigger scale.

So far the reply he has received from the airplane industry in this country has not been encouraging. He said:

"Everywhere I was told that although the invention itself was considered remarkable, the pressure of the Government expansion scheme was so great that the firms are unable to develop research for the next three years."

He has had an offer from an important airplane firm in America to develop his invention there. At the moment he is hesitating to accept it as he wants it to be developed first in England.

"But it looks as if this invention will suffer the same fate as a great many other inventions have in this country," he said. "They have had to be taken abroad and

BRILLIANT NEW
LIGHTSHIPSFog Signals Audible
40 Miles Away

Powerful lamps producing a beam up to 500,000 candle-power will be installed in the new lightships which, as announced by the Board of Trade, are being built to replace 19 obsolete wooden ships, writes a correspondent.

Details of the equipment that is being installed were given to me by a representative of Chance Bros. and Co. Ltd., the lighthouse engineers, of Smithwick, Birmingham.

Latest Lamps

The ships will have lamps similar to the latest type fitted in lighthouses, and their remarkable qualities are illustrated by the following facts:

There is only one burner, instead of nine or more requiring frequent attention.

A labour-saving pendulum apparatus, operated by a small motor, takes the place of clockwork, which had to be wound up every two hours.

The lamp, mounted in a glazed lantern, and fixed to a mast 32ft to 40ft above the water-level, has a beam which can be seen from a distance of 10 to 11 miles, and gives single, double, triple and quadruple flashes, recognisable by navigators who have Admiralty charts with the list of lights.

Submarine Detectors

The fog signals have an ingenious timing apparatus, which makes the signals sound at the required intervals of two seconds or more. They can be heard at a distance of half a mile to 40 miles away, according to the state of the atmosphere.

The ships will be fitted with wireless telephones and wireless transmitters, and submarine detectors that reveal the presence of a vessel as far away as 40 or 50 miles.

Running hot and cold water are among the new comforts introduced for the crews.

Despite the many labour-saving devices, however, the ships will need as many, if not more, hands because of the extra work necessitated below in attending to the batteries and generators.

developed there before anybody here would take any notice of them."

"Mysterious" Mr. Left Leaves Hong Kong

I replied that it was merely a rumour, whereupon he said, "Well, I've been pestered everywhere I go and reporters always ask the same question you did. No, I'm not Cortez. I'm from New York, and I'm travelling around the world for my health."

Not having been hitherto confronted with personages travelling incognito, I was at a loss as to what to say, until Mr. Left kindly suggested going up to his room to prove that he was not the famous star.

"WHICH IS WHICH?" I was shown clippings from every port that Mr. Left had visited, and they were all the same in that there were two photographs of Ricardo Cortez and Mr. Left side by side. The caption asked, "Which is which?"

However, I was not satisfied, and made an appointment for the following day. Mr. Left's features, the eyes and the lines about the mouth were exactly the same as the actor's, and I was not convinced.

At tea the following day, I was informed that he was connected with Warner Brothers in an executive position, which further strengthened the belief that he was here incognito.

I saw him again last night, but all that he would talk about was the charm of Hong Kong.

HONG KONG SHOULD BE ADVERTISED

"Why don't you people advertise this place more?" he asked. "Everyone told me that Shanghai was the Paris of the Far East, but there was no advertising about the beauties of Hong Kong. Why I was out at Repulse Bay yesterday and it was like a summer's day at home. Apart from the fact that I was stared at in all public places—we'd only sneak glances at others at home—I found courtesy everywhere."

"This is a wonderful place," he continued, "and I like it just as much as I did the Riviera and Cannes."

"But," I said, "Hong Kong is advertised as the Riviera of the Orient."

"That may be so locally," replied Mr. Left, "but you don't advertise it all over the world. Advertising plays a big part in getting trade."

"WHERE'S YOUR WIFE?" We were the conversation back to Hollywood. "Where is your wife, Mr. Left?" I asked.

"I'm not married," he replied. "I was stumped again, because Cortez is married to a social registerite in California."

"You sure have a swell place here," he said again, "and I wish I had planned to remain longer. I'll have to go through the same denials when I arrive in Manila. I'll hang a sign outside my door. I'm not Ricardo Cortez. No reporters! That is if I can get a room there."

He concluded by asking, "Don't you believe that I'm just plain Mr. M. Left of New York?"

I replied that I wasn't sure. Had Ricardo Cortez been in the Colony for a week without being found out? That's the enigma.

East And West Must Blend

Monsignor Yu Pin is one of the many prelates passing through on his way to the Eucharistic Congress in Manila, opening on February 7. He was invited to give an address to a gathering of Catholic students—boys and girls—at Ricci Hall on the subject of the Lay Apostolate, a subject not only dear to his heart but one in which he specialised as a priest prior to his episcopal consecration. To all his young hearers he opened up new vistas of the possibilities of a life noble in its generous outlook.

SPIRITUAL ASPIRATIONS
The spiritual aspirations of the soul, its training, its intellectual quickening, its social endeavours resting on the conviction that you must feed the hungry bodies of the struggling poor before you can awaken their atrophied spiritual appetites. Help for the sick, sunlight for the darkened homes, the necessary modicum of comfort for all before you can lead them on to the most sublime of all truths, the union of mankind in the mystical body of Christ, the only haven wherein a war-weary, economic-weary, class-weary world can surely find rest.

With all present I listened with rapt attention to the inspiring message of one whose soul spoke to the souls of his audience with the force of that compelling human magnetism—the sympathy which is the outcome of a strong love, the love of God. Can the East and the West meet? Prophets of division ask the question demagogically; optimists ask the question tentatively. There is one true solution. Monsignor Yu Pin gave it to his audience: "that they may be one, as Thou, Father, in Me, and I in Thee."

Those who have been privileged to meet Monsignor Yu Pin need not ask whether East and West can blend? They must blend when the Father of all unites them.

Another Serious Train Mishap

It appears that the 12.45 p.m. up-train from Kowloon was just about to enter Tong Tau Ha station when the engine (No. 7) and the first coach (third class British Section) became derailed the cause of which will not be known until full investigations have been made by the railway authorities.

SLEEPERS TORN
It is further learned that a number of sleepers were torn. The derailed caused the main through line to be blocked with the nine remaining coaches.

The Canton-Kowloon express which left Canton at 1.10 p.m. reached as far as Tong Tau Ha but was unable to continue its journey owing to the blockade.

It is understood that the speed of the derailed train on entering Tong Tau Ha station was not more than 15 miles per hour as it was drawing up to stop in order to allow the down train to pass.

PASSENGERS TRANSFERRED
Passengers on the 1.10 p.m. train from Canton were transferred to the nine remaining coaches and a relief engine was sent from Shum Chun. By this means they were able to complete their journey and the train arrived at the Kowloon Railway Station shortly before 8.30 p.m., two hours late.

Passengers from the derailed train were likewise transferred to the down train which returned to Canton.

In the meantime, the Station Master at Tong Tau Ha sent a message to the Chinese Section asking for a breakdown wagon to be sent to the scene of the mishap. Apparently the task was too big for the wagon to cope with, for at 6.25 p.m. the Kowloon Railway Station received a message to despatch the British Section breakdown train, which, however, had already got up steam in readiness for an emergency.

The breakdown train left Kowloon at 6.45 p.m. for Tong Tau Ha. The work of removing the derailed engine and coach is proceeding apace and it is probable that the blockade will be removed by this morning.

Sian Embroglio

It is said that the favourable turn in the negotiations had been greatly due to the effect of General Yen Kai-shan, Pacification Commissioner of Szechuan and Suiyuan, who has been one of the principal peace mediators.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE
Realizing the importance of Mr. Wang Ching-wei's conference with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at Fenghuang, the leading officials of the Government hastened to see him, when he returned from Fenghuang yesterday.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei remained in Fenghuang for three days, and every day, he had at least two meetings with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and at times, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek proceeded to the Wen Chang pavilion himself to see Mr. Wang.

On the 26th instant Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek took Mr. Wang Ching-wei with him to view the famous places of Fenghuang, and also the Library founded by him in his native village.

The "Yellow Dragon"

Queen's College Magazine

Those responsible for the editing of the Queen's College magazine, the "Yellow Dragon," are to be most heartily congratulated on one of the best school journals which we have ever perused. It is conspicuous for the gratifying number of original articles contributed by present and former pupils, all of whom bring to their ventures into journalism a freshness of expression and optimism of outlook which is indeed a joy to read.

If the sentiments so adroitly expressed in the Editorial reflect the spirit of the students of this great educational institution, then the community will be well served by those who, early in life, have learned to appreciate the potent principle, namely, that there can never be true service without sacrifice. This editorial exhorts the boys of Queen's College to practice the virtues set forth in the New Life Movement—virtues which, if practiced by the bulk of the people, could raise China to pre-eminence amongst the nations of the world.

DR. SUN YAT-SEN

Of great historical interest and national significance is the record contained in this excellent publication of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen when he attended Queen's College. It is recalled that this immortal's school name was "Tai Tseung," which literally translated means, "having the appearance of an Emperor" or "like an Emperor." Surely the name was very aptly chosen, and, as the Editors remark, "Parents might do well to notice this; perhaps giving a boy an ambitious name does really stimulate him to live up to it." Certainly Dr. Sun Yat-sen did.

There is plenty of light and shade in the "Yellow Dragon" and some of the humorous articles convincingly re-create the characteristic atmosphere of the classroom and playing field.

There are some good illustrations of the prefects and others who have taken their positions as leaders in the various activities in the life of this vital institution. Included in this publication is a Chinese version which pleasingly demonstrates the inter-nationality of the school.

Congratulations Queen's! —The Editor.

China's Postal Services

BANDIT ACTIVITIES
The year also witnessed great improvements, such as the completion of many additional highways, and also the eradication of banditry. The bandit activities raging in Szechuan, Kweichow, and north Szechuan affected postal operations, but those in charge of this work remained at their posts gallantly, though some were wounded or killed and others suffered the loss of personal effects.

The Eurasia Aviation Corporation's Kailan-Lingzia line was extended to Paochow and the Shanghai-Sinkiang line changed its route, effecting increases of 420 and 10 kilometres respectively. The Paochow-Kunming line operated by the China National Aviation Corporation was inaugurated, covering a distance of 788 kilometres. The South-western Aviation Corporation established its Canton-Lungchow line of 643 kilometres, and the Canton-Klungshan-Yunking line. These increases gave a total of 2,556 kilometres, but with the Peking-Canton line curtailed by 150 kilometres due to the substitution of Chenghsien for Loyang, Ho, as place of call, the net increase during the year was 2,406 kilometres.
